THE CHRONICLES AND MEMORIALS OF
GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND
DURING THE MIDDLE AGES.

PUBLISHED BY THE AUTHORITY OF HER MAJESTY'S TREASURY, UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS.

ON the 26th of January 1857, the Master of the Rolls submitted to the Treasury a proposal for the publication of materials for the History of this Country from the Invasion of the Romans to the reign of Henry VIII.

The Master of the Rolls suggested that these materials should be selected for publication under competent editors without reference to periodical or chronological arrangement, without mutilation or abridgment, preference being given, in the first instance, to such materials as were most scarce and valuable.

He proposed that each chronicle or historical document to be edited should be treated in the same way as if the editor were engaged on an Editio Princeps; and for this purpose the most correct text should be formed from an accurate collation of the best MSS.

To render the work more generally useful, the Master of the Rolls suggested that the editor should give an account of the MSS. employed by him, of their age and their peculiarities; that he should add to the work a brief account of the life and times of the author, and any remarks necessary to explain the chronology; but no other note or comment was to be allowed, except what might be necessary to establish the correctness of the text.

The works to be published in octavo, separately, as they were finished; the whole responsibility of the task resting upon the editors, who were to be chosen by the Master of the Rolls with the sanction of the Treasury.

The Lords of Her Majesty's Treasury, after a careful consideration of the subject, expressed their opinion in a Treasury Minute, dated February 9, 1857, that the plan recommended by the Master of the Rolls "was well calculated for the accomplishment of this important national object, in an effectual and satisfactory manner, within a reasonable time, and provided proper attention be paid to economy, in making the detailed arrangements, without unnecessary expense."

They expressed their approbation of the proposal that each Chronicle and historical document should be edited in such a manner as to represent with all possible correctness the text of each writer, derived from a collation of the best MSS., and that no notes should be added, except such as were illustrative of the various readings. They suggested, however, that the preface to each work should contain, in addition to the particulars proposed by the Master of the Rolls, a biographical account of the author, so far as authentic materials existed for that purpose, and an estimate of his historical credibility and value.

P R E F A C E.

THE documents contained in the present volume illustrate, for the most part, the general history of the north of England, particularly in its relation to Scotland. They have been derived from the evidences which are preserved at the three great ecclesiastical centres of the north, Carlisle, Durham, and York.

The episcopal registers at Carlisle, prior to the Reformation, consist of only two volumes, which contain the acts of five consecutive bishops, extending from the year 1292 to the close almost of the fourteenth century. The series commences with John de Halton, who, from his position on the Borders, was necessarily a politician and almost a soldier. During the latter part of the reign of Edward I., Carlisle was a great rendezvous for the English army in the Scottish war, and we find, therefore, in bishop Halton's register many public documents of considerable interest in connexion with Scotland. The greater part of them are already in print, and on that account they are unnoticed here. It is much to be regretted that in a city like Carlisle, which is one of the chief gateways into Scotland, so few documentary memorials should have been preserved. Their destruction, however, was probably due to that restless people, whose dangerous proximity has invested with such interest the past history of the capital of the Borders.

The registers of the bishops of Durham are, strange to say, as few and as jejune as those of their neighbours at Carlisle. We should scarcely have expected this, considering the dignity and wealth of the see, and the character and grandeur of the prelates who ruled it. There are in the British Museum a few leaves of what seems to have been a register of bishop Anthony Bek, but they merely contain the appointments of some of the lay officers of his court. The register of his immediate successor, Richard de Kellawe, with a portion of that of Richard de Bury subjoined to it, after many vicissitudes of fortune, has found a home in the Public Record Office, and is now, happily, in the press, under the supervision of the Master of the Rolls. It is the most interesting of the Durham books, and contains many documents of a much more than local value. Next in sequence are the registers of bishops Hatfield and Langley, which consist of little more than the formal records of the working of the diocese. The remaining registers, prior to the Reformation, are two scanty and unremunerating pamphlets, those of bishops Fox and Tunstall. All the ancient charters in connexion with the see of Durham have long since been destroyed; but the close and patent rolls of the bishops, with a multitude of miscellaneous evidences, chiefly of a late date, are now deposited in the Public Record Office at London.

To eke out the scanty records of the see of Durham we must have recourse to the noble series of original evidences which are in the possession of the dean and chapter of that place, as successors of the inmates of the ancient Benedictine priory of Durham. The official act-books of that wealthy and magnificent establishment, together with its letter-books and chartularies, date from the close of the thirteenth century; but, in addition to these, there is a vast quantity of original charters, rolls, and documents of every description, which may be counted, without exaggeration, by tens of thousands. These, for the most part, relate to the domestic economy of the priory, and the history of its estates, and there is but little in them of any public and general interest. It must be remembered, however, in connexion with the missing registers of the bishops of Durham, that many of the documents which they once recorded are to be found on the act-books of the prior and convent, by whom it was necessary that they should be confirmed.

We now come to York, where the student in history has a grand field of labour before him. The archiepiscopal registers commence with the year 1225, and with the exception of a break of 10 years, from 1256 to 1266, they are complete to the present time. It is difficult to imagine a finer series of books. Those preserved at Lincoln are the only episcopal act-books in England that can be compared with them, and that diocese covered a larger sweep of country than York; but Lincoln lacks the public documents which characterize the registers at York. At Lambeth there are more documents connected with the general history of the church, but the archdiocese of Canterbury was a very small one in itself. There are far fewer state papers preserved at Lambeth than at York, but this is not to be wondered at. It was superfluous to send them across the Thames from Westminster to be recorded in the archbishop of Canterbury's books; but at York the northern primate was at a distance from the court, and was one of the great agents for disseminating and enforcing throughout the north the mandates of the king and his council; and it is natural that he should record on his official act-books, even among alien papers, many of the documents in which he was so much interested, and for the carrying out of which he was so largely responsible. From these documents the greater part of this volume has been derived, and it is only proper, therefore, to speak more at length of a series of records to which we are so largely indebted.

Archbishop Walter Gray leads the van in the York registers. His official act-book, if it may be called so, extends from 1225 to 1255, the records of the first 10 years of his archiepiscopate having been lost. It is a large roll, divided into two parts, which, when united, make one continuous scroll, 70 feet in length, written on both sides. A partial imprint of this valuable document has just been published by the Surtees Society, from which it will be seen that this roll, although it is without what may be called a single state paper, is full of novel information about the usages and traditions of the northern diocese and church. After Walter Gray's death there was a troublous interval of 10 years, during which the see of York had two occupants, who have left no record of what they did behind them. In 1266 Walter Giffard, bishop of Bath and Wells, took his seat in the archiepiscopal chair and occupied it for 13 years. In his register, although it is ill-arranged and confused, there is much to interest the reader, as will be seen from the extracts in this volume. Giffard was a person of the highest influence in the state, and some documents of much public importance, which may be sought for in vain elsewhere, are recorded in his register. In the same volume there is a portion of Giffard's acts as bishop of Bath and Wells, and what may be called a liberate quire, containing the archbishop's general receipts and payments, which descend at times into the most interesting minutiae. The register contains the earliest ordination lists that I am acquainted with, and the record of some very curious visitations of religious houses. It is probable that this register will ere long be published by the Surtees Society. Giffard was succeeded by archbishop Wickwaine, who died at Pontigny in 1285, and whose act-book bears ample testimony to the monastic austerity of his life, and the strictness of the discipline that he enforced. It contains a liberate quire, and a few papers only of any public importance. Archbishop Romanus succeeded Wickwaine in 1286, and held the see for 10 years. His register, like that of his contemporary,

John Peckham, is conspicuous for its admirable arrangement. It is a perfect picture of what a bishop's register should be. There are in it many curious letters and indulgences. Romanus was followed by Henry de Newark, whose act-book, short, and injured in old times by damp, is at the head of a register, sede vacante, which ends in 1554. The book of Thomas Corbridge comes next in order, but it contains little of any general interest. Not so that of William de Greenfield, which is in two parts, extending from 1306 to 1315. It abounds with documents, as this volume shows, of a most valuable nature, not only relating to the diocesan work and the private expenditure of the archbishop, but giving us glimpses also of public life and public men, for the Scottish wars at that time made York for some years, perhaps, the most important city in the kingdom. I may mention also, that in this register there is the earliest document on paper that I am acquainted with. It came to the archbishop from Italy, and is inserted in his act-book. The next register to that of Greenfield is that of William de Melton, a magnificent volume of 595 folios, ending in 1340, and the noblest volume of its class that I have been fortunate enough to see. It brings the primate before us with the vividness of a picture. He may be traced almost from day to day, not only in his public acts, but in the most minute incidents of his private life. The volume contains many papers of national interest, especially in connexion with Scotland. I shall enumerate afterwards the main divisions and the arrangement of this fine book, to give my readers some general idea of the character and the component parts of an archiepiscopal register. After Melton, in 1342, came William de la Zouche, who was primate for 10 years, and in whose act-book we miss for the first time the state papers which were so frequent before. They were recorded elsewhere, if they were recorded at all, and the archiepiscopal scribes devote themselves for the future to the purely episcopal work of the diocese. Separate from this register is a thin volume containing the ordinations of the clergy during this prelate's time. Henceforward there is a continuous series of them at York; but they are appended for the future, until the close of the sixteenth century, to the register of the primate in whose time they took place. Of a similar character to the act-book of Zouche is that of his successor, the munificent Thoresby, which bears ample testimony to his devotion to his church and diocese. It contains also an invaluable specimen of northern English, in a sort of metrical catechism, translated from the Latin into the vernacular at the archbishop's request by John de Gatricks. This has been thrice printed, but only once, and that incorrectly, from this the undoubted original. After Thoresby's death in 1373, the see was occupied, in succession, by Alexander Neville, Thomas Arundel, Robert Waldby, and Richard Scrope, but in the registers of these prelates there is little to remark. They are thin and carelessly written volumes, indicative of indifference and neglect. Those of the first three consist chiefly of the acts of vicars-general in the place of their masters, who were generally non-resident, and it is only in Scrope's time that we find diocesan work in regular and active progress. His register, however, was cut short by his untimely decease. With his successor, Henry Bowet, a new era begins in the registers of the archbishops. Henceforward, until the close of the fifteenth century, they are large and massive volumes, beautifully arranged and clean, but they contain little more than the ordinary procedure of the diocese. The present collection of papers closes almost before these registers commence, and it is needless on that account to dwell upon them here. These are succeeded by four volumes, somewhat similar in size and appearance to those at the end of the fourteenth century, which bring the ecclesiastical annals of Yorkshire down to the Reformation. These are the act-books of archbishops Savage, Bainbridge, Wolsey, and Lee. In the two last there are some curious documents in connexion with the ecclesiastical changes of the period ; and in that of Lee there is a copy of the strange and remarkable evidence which Henry VIII. brought forward to justify his divorce from the lady Anne of Cleves.

The archbishops of York possess no series of charters or ancient documents appertaining to their office and the possessions of the see. Most of the early grants made to them and their church are fortunately recorded in the Registrum Magnum Album, which is in the possession of the dean and chapter ; and others are in MS., Lansdowne, 402, which is a special repertory of archiepiscopal deeds.

The act-books of the dean and chapter of York, like those of the prior and convent of Durham, commence in the early part of the reign of Edward I., and are tolerably perfect to the present time, but they contain little more than the proceedings of the capitular body, with no intermixture of state papers. The chapter possess a few original deeds, but they have what is of the greatest importance, the Great White Register of the church of York, containing all the early charters of endowment and privilege granted by the English and Norman kings and popes, and much, besides, which is of the highest historical interest. The existing volume is a transcript only of the first White Book, made in the fourteenth century, of which the Cottonian MS., Claudius B. iii., is, as far as it goes, a much earlier copy. The volume at York is prefaced by Hugh the Chantor's unpublished lives of the first Norman archbishops, from which Thomas Stubbs, the chronicler, drew so much of his materials.

The muniments of the city of York have yielded two or three papers for the present collection, but they are necessarily few, as the act-books of the corporation do not commence before the close of the reign of Edward III.

These volumes, which are multitudinous in number, contain at a later period some choice historical information. During the reigns of Richard II. and Henry IV. and V., many of the proceedings of parliament are entered on them ; and, more recently still, they contain the curious papers connected with Edward IV. and Richard III., which have been printed by Mr. Davies,¹ together with other notices of royal visits and public events and men.

Having thus, generally and briefly, described the various collections of evidences from which the subject-matter of this volume has been culled, it may be well to give a more minute description of one of those episcopal registers which have been so productive of interesting materials. I shall select that of archbishop Melton, who presided over the see of York from 1317 to 1340. This is a noble volume, 15 inches long and 6 inches in thickness, containing 595 closely written folios. The component parts of the register are as follows :—

1. An index of the contents drawn up in the seventeenth century.
2. Pp. 1–65. Payments of money and receipts, loans, bonds, and acquittances, and records of pecuniary transactions ; of the most varied character.
3. Pp. 66–123. Capitula, i.e., various papers, e.g., collations, admissions, visitations, &c., connected with the chapters of York, Southwell, Ripon, and Beverley, and the chapel of St. Mary and the Holy Angels, at York.
4. Pp. 123–223. Documents relating to livings, monasteries, and persons within the archdeaconry of York.

¹ “Extracts from the municipal records of the city of York, by Robert Davies, Esq., F.S.A., London, 1843.” In the York volume of the Proceedings of the Archæo-logical Institute, Mr. Davies has published some documents connected with Lambert Symnell’s rebellion, derived from the same source.

5. Pp. 224-265. Similar documents relating to the archdeaconry of Cleveland.
6. Pp. 266-330. Similar documents relating to the archdeaconry of the East Riding.
7. Pp. 330-398. Similar documents relating to the archdeaconry of Nottingham.
8. Pp. 399-441. Documents relating chiefly to secular matters, i.e., the appointment and work of judges, and papers connected with offices and lands within the archbishop's bailiwicks of Beverley, Sherburne, Ripon, Southwell, Gloucester, and Hexham, together with the provostry of Beverley.
9. Pp. 442-457. Documents relating to the archdeaconry of Richmond.
10. Pp. 458-481. Documents relating to the archbishop's suffragans, viz., the bishops of Durham, Carlisle, Whitherne, and Glasgow, the ordination of bishops, &c.
11. Pp. 481-494. Documents relating to the spiritualities of Howden and Howdenshire, Allerton and Allertonshire.
12. Pp. 494-551. Letters to and from various persons, &c., especially the court of Rome, including many state papers.
13. Pp. 552-563. A series of mandates to the official of the court of York.
14. Pp. 564-584. The register of the acts of the archbishop, whilst he was twice absent from his diocese as lord-treasurer of England, viz., in 1325-6, and 1330.
15. Pp. 585-588. The registers kept by Mr. Robert de Ripplingham, chancellor of York, and Mr. Denis Avenell, the archbishop's vicar-general, in 1325-6.
16. Pp. 588-592. Various mandates to the official of the court of York and to other persons.
17. Pp. 592-593. A register of the acts of Robert de Ripplingham as vicar-general, in 1330.

18. Pp. 593-595. A list of the various homages paid to archbishop Melton, arranged under their several counties and bailiwicks.

As to the number of the documents on this fine register, it is impossible to give even an approximate estimate. On many pages there are 20 or 30 distinct articles; whilst, secured between the leaves, there are here and there inserted many original papers, letters, and writs, which the officer who had charge of the volume chose to preserve rather than to transcribe. We have to thank him for his indolence, if so it may be called. The ipsissima verba, probably, we should have had in a copy, but not the characters and the many little objects and marks of interest which delineate to a certain extent both the dictator and his amanuensis.

It will have been seen that this register, like most of its fellows, is divided into parts or subjects. To each of these parts a separate quaternus or quire is devoted. On the archbishop's death all of these would be bound together. The volume still bears the stout covering of white leather which was given to it, probably in the year 1340, or soon after. The various documents in the volume are not only classified, but they follow each other under each head in proper chronological sequence, so that there is no difficulty in finding them, especially as there is the index at the beginning to refer to. In drawing up each quire, the scribe must have had before him the original documents, as they are given for the most part in extenso, with very few omissions even of the more formal verbiage. It must not, however, be imagined that we have, even in so large and diffuse a register as this, the whole of archbishop Melton's official acts. The original documents, from which these transcripts were made, were small for the most part in size, and so numerous, that the occasional omission or loss of some of them need cause no surprise, especially if the work of the scribe fell into arrear. Any one, who is conversant with ecclesiastical registers, must have observed over and over again, how the transcriber has omitted here and there two or three documents in a series; and these, as far as we can form an opinion at the present time, by no means the least in interest and importance. This is soon observed when we come to the fasti of a diocese. There is a break here and there in the succession of incumbents in almost every parish, which can only be accounted for in this way; for there can be no doubt that the diocesan or his representative took some official cognizance of the appointment that we miss.

There are many changes observable from time to time in the character of the documents with which our episcopal registers are filled. The earliest that we possess, especially those at York and Lincoln, take the form of rolls, and are, for the most part, note-books only of official acts, with a few documents at length connected with endowments, together with the papers which relate to the temporal estates of the see. In the middle of the thirteenth century, matters of ecclesiastical discipline of various kinds are recorded as well, together with a number of letters and mandates, which seem to increase yearly. There is much also connected with the private life of the bishops, their income and expenditure. In the first half of the fourteenth century the registers attain their greatest bulk, for they then contain, not only a vast array of papers relating to the clergy and the monasteries, but many others as well, which bear more or less upon the history of the country. After 1350 a great change takes place. The extraneous papers disappear; the cases of discipline disappear, a record of them being made, no doubt, in some other place; and the register becomes more and more a calendar of collations and institutions. At this time the ordination lists begin to be inserted regularly; still, even with their addition, the register is almost as thin and jejune as its predecessors at the commencement of the series. With the beginning of the fifteenth century, the registers increase in bulk ; but this is mainly caused by the insertion of wills and the appearance of licenses for marriage within the forbidden degrees, licenses for oratories, indulgences, and the like. These scarcely outlive the century, and the books, during the reigns of Henry VII. and VIII., return to their primitive narrowness.

But it is time to turn to those documents of a more general interest and bearing, which form the text of this volume. They may be said to range from 1260 to 1350, with a fringe on either side. A certain number of these papers are entered on these registers for the purposes of record, just as they were in the time of Edward I. on the charter-books of the monasteries. Others appear there because the prelate happened to occupy some high position in the state, and a few of the papers out of his secular registry, by chance or design, were mingled with those of his diocese. Then, again, there are the documents, which show how in some sudden emergency the northern ecclesiastics took their part in the dangers and triumphs of the kingdom. We see how they were burdened on almost all occasions by taxation, and how they groaned at other times under the exactions and devastation of invading armies. Incidents and particulars such as these build up stone by stone the history of an empire, and supplement largely that vast body of materials for our national annals which is contained in the Public Record Office of the country.

In a collection of evidences like the present, consisting of so great a variety of subjects, it would be scarcely just to single out one particular class for prefatorial comment. It will be better to touch lightly upon several topics of interest which this volume illustrates, but more to direct attention to the documents than to speak of them at length.

In the first place, we have in this volume some remarkable illustrations of the personal history of the English sovereigns. In 1270 we have the award of Richard, king of the Romans, in which he determines the conditions on which Gilbert de Clare, earl of Gloucester, shall join with Prince Edward in the Crusade.¹ In 1290 there is a letter from Edward I., dated at Hardby, to archbishop Romanus, announcing the decease of queen Eleanor on the 28th of November.² That prelate grants an indulgence for her soul, and tells the king that 47,528 masses have been said for its repose within the province of York.³ In 1307, archbishop Greenfield deplores the death of Edward himself, calling him the "flos militiæ singularis," and the "gloria terrestrium principatum et regnorum."⁴ It is much to be regretted that the Northern Registers afford us no accurate information as to the death of Edward II. Archbishop Melton merely speaks of it as a "fatalis casus,"⁵ words that mean anything, and desires that the soul of the departed monarch may have the prayers of the Christian faithful. We have also no record at York of the marriage of Edward III. and Philippa of Hainault, which took place in the minster. In 1371, after her decease, her bed was sent as an offering to the church of York, and was made into vestments.⁶ The sickness and death of Edward III. are mentioned more than once.⁷ In connexion with Richard II., we have a rough draft of the programme to be observed at his coronation,⁸ and one of the many copies of the official acts by which he resigned the throne, and Henry IV.

ascended it.¹ There is also preserved at York a form to be observed in preparing the body of a deceased sovereign for its burial,² which was probably carried out on the decease of Henry IV. During the reign of Henry V. we have a brief notice of the conspiracy of Richard, earl of Cambridge, and his friends, with a full account of what was done in York with the effects of Henry, lord Scrope of Masham, who was executed for his share in the treason.³ I have already mentioned the curious papers respecting the part taken by the city of York in the political world during the reigns of Edward IV. and Richard III. There is in the chapter act-book for the time, an account of the visit of the latter monarch to York, in 1483, when his youthful son was made Prince of Wales.⁴ The end of this child is involved in some little obscurity. I have every reason to believe that he is buried in the church of Sheriffhutton, near York, beneath the shadow of the lordly castle of his kinsmen, the Nevilles.

There are many papers in this volume to illustrate the general history of the nation, particularly in connexion with its politics and its wars. During the reign of Henry III., there are two most interesting letters from Ottobonus the cardinal legate ; in one of them, written in 1267, he summons the bishop of Norwich in hot haste to London, as he is in peril between the contending armies;⁵ in another, dated in the following year, he announces the peace which he had been the means of securing, and urges the bishops and clergy of the northern province to help to cement it by that pecuniary contribution which they were so often called upon to render.⁶ We have several glimpses of the misery caused by this internecine struggle, and of the general disorganisation which it brought upon society at large.

In 1270 we have several documents in connexion with the proposed Crusade, and the hardship occasioned by the vintisme which was laid to support it.¹ The letters addressed to the prior of Worcester and the chapter of Ripon show with what severity this impost pressed upon the clergy. We have also the arrangement made between Prince Edward and Gilbert earl of Gloucester as to the share of each in the expedition.² There is also a curious list of the sums raised within the province of York towards the maintenance of the enterprise derived from fines, gifts, and commutations of vows.³ In 1280 archbishop Wickwaine writes to Nicolas III., stating that it is not the intention of Edward I. to start on the Crusade, and recommending Edmund, earl of Cornwall, his brother, as leader in his stead.⁴ In 1291 archbishop Romanus takes the subject up with some energy, and organizes a preaching tour of the friars within his province, to secure the help and money of the faithful.⁵ There is reason to believe that this aid was very slowly and unwillingly rendered. In Scotland, particularly, many of the prelates and people fell under the sentence of excommunication through their neglect of it, and the registers at Carlisle contain several papers which show how hardly they were pressed, and with what unwillingness they made any contribution at all.⁶ For the future any struggle for the rescue of the holy places from the infidels was stayed by the absence of English money and arms; for the wars which broke out with Scotland, not only forbade England to take any share in Eastern politics, but were the main cause of the loss of her possessions in France. The extinction of the Order of the Temple showed that the old romance of these expeditions had passed away for ever.

The mention of the Scottish wars brings us to the most painfully interesting feature of the present volume. The number of papers connected with this bitter and prolonged struggle is very numerous among the Northern Registers. The sufferings of war were felt in an extraordinary measure, and the clergy in particular were victims, not only in the devastation of their parishes, but also in the pecuniary burdens which they were always being called upon to make for the relief of others. Upon the details of this prolonged conflict it is impossible to look back with anything but disgust. There was an amount of savagery and cold-blooded brutality about it that would disgrace nations which made no pretence to civilization. In 1296 and 1297 the counties of Northumberland and Cumberland were most cruelly handled by the Scots, and Hexhamshire and its priory were harried and left desolate.¹ The shire, which was a regality of the archbishop of York, could send him in no revenue, and the prior and canons, deprived of all means of local support, were obliged to leave their home in Tynedale and find a home in quiet Yorkshire with their brother Augustinians at Bridlington. Carlisle and its vicinity experienced still more severe suffering, and the plaintive letter of bishop Halton, in 1301, is more outspoken than chronicler or chronicle.² It seemed almost superfluous in some districts to have recourse to the new taxation which had been so keenly demanded, as there was nothing left in many places for the tax-gatherer to find. Nay, even the presence of the English army did but imverish still farther that devastated district. The papers which occur at this time in bishop Halton's register show more fully than anything else the horrors of this crisis. From November 1297 to September 1298 the Scots were besieging Carlisle, and at the same time eleven hostages from Galloway, pledges for the fidelity of that district, were pining away in the dungeons of Loughmaben. Eleven went in, but only one came out alive after a two years' captivity. His companions ended their lives in that merciless prison.¹ We have also a new account of the murder of the two Comyns at Dumfries, the most sanguinary outrage, perhaps, that disgraced that sanguinary period.²

After the commencement of the fourteenth century, there is a cessation for a while in the Northern Records of evidences of this cruel strife; but it was still going on, although with bated force. In 1306 we see the occasion of the prolonged imprisonment of Robert, bishop of Glasgow,³ and the disasters that fell upon Galloway, caused no doubt to a certain extent by the adherence of the bishop and some of his clergy to the English cause.⁴ In the same year we have a notice of the session of a remarkable committee at Newcastle-on-Tyne, before which evidence was taken as to the relics preserved in the royal abbey of Scone.⁵ The depositions, most unfortunately, are not recorded, as they were sent to Clement V. We might have learned, perhaps, from them that there was a continuance of the policy which had already deprived that illustrious monastery of the coronation chair of her kings. In 1310 we find one of the vicars of Beverley minster going to the Scottish war with the banner of St. John, the patron saint of that noble church.⁶ It had not yet acquired the sanctity which subsequently accrued to it after the victory of Agincourt, nor did it at any time enjoy the repute with which the banner of St. Cuthbert of Durham was continually regarded. The presence of such banners on the battle-field shows the anxiety of the English sovereigns to give to the war a religious character, and to enlist on their side all the forces and influences of the church at home and abroad. In 1311 there was a shudder of alarm in the north, and the comparative quietude of the few preceding years came to an end. A Scottish invasion, continued year after year, swept over Cumberland, Northumberland, and Durham. The bishop of Durham had a sad story to tell about it to Clement V.¹ In his position as prince palatine, the defence of a large tract of country devolved upon him, and he was obliged to devote himself to work, which was by no means spiritual in its character. This was a troublous time for the bishopric of Durham. In 1314 it escaped devastation by the payment of a large ransom.² But it was after the defeat at Bannockburn that Scottish daring reached its utmost height. The terror that prevailed throughout the north of England was something unexampled, and nothing was heard on every side but the sounds of military preparation; and there was need of it, for, with the exception of a few fortresses, two or three of the northernmost counties were almost permanently occupied by the Scots. The complaints from Carlisle evoked the sympathy of the archbishop of York, who had troubles of his own to attend to, for his royalty of Hexham seemed to be irretrievably ruined, and the canons of that place were again driven for shelter to their brethren in Yorkshire.³ The little nunnery of Lambley in Tynedale was in the same plight,¹ and Lanercost, higher up the country, on the Irthing, was desolated as well. The Northern Registers contain much information about this exciting time, even to the most minute details. The vicar of Haltwhistle in Northumberland was carried off as a prisoner and means were adopted for buying him back.² At York the registers show us how some of the ransoms of the prisoners at Bannockburn were raised.³ We have the absolution of Humphrey de Bohun who died on that fatal field,⁴ and there is a striking little picture showing the death of a villager who for safety and curiosity climbed the steeple of the church of Houghton-le-Spring, in the county of Durham, to watch the Scots as they ranged the long plain below him, and fell from his perch and was killed. Hitherto Yorkshire had been spared, but the Scots finding that the north was naked and bare, spread themselves in 1318 and 1319 through a new and unplundered country. In May 1318 they broke into Yorkshire, and made their head quarters apparently at Fountains abbey, spreading to the north-east as far as Northallerton, and southward to Borough-bridge and Knaresbrough.⁵ The people of Ripon, to save themselves, paid a fine of 1,000*l*.⁶ After a while the enemy turned westwards and rolled away up Wharfedale, plundering Otley and Bolton and Skipton ere they turned northwards again. The re-taxation of the benefices which they devastated marks their progress with accuracy.⁷ The town of Knaresbrough was burnt down, and the tower of the parish church still bears the marks of the fire which the marauders raised against it, with the intention, no doubt, of burning out the fugitives that it sheltered. Even after the lapse of several years the canons of Bolton had been unable to retrieve their losses and were compelled to disperse.¹ The archbishop of York was the chief sufferer in this inroad. His rich and untouched domains in Yorkshire fared no better than Hexhamshire, and he was loud in his complaints. But the losses of Yorkshire and its archbishop, in 1318, were far exceeded by those in the succeeding year. Whilst Edward II. and his army were at Berwick, a Scottish army under the command of the earl of Moray and Sir James Douglas slipped into Yorkshire, and got so far into the county that they are said to have plundered the very suburbs of York itself. A motley host, half lay, half ecclesiastic, was gathered together on the spur of the emergency to check the foe, and met the Scottish army at Myton-on-Swale, only to run away from it. The result of the flight was an indiscriminate slaughter of the fugitives, and a much larger booty than the enemy could have expected. Many of the archbishop's tenants lost their lives in the fight,² and the primate's plate and furniture of household, which had been brought very unnecessarily into the field by his retainers, fell into the hands of the victors. It was by the merest chance that they missed getting hold of his pastoral staff. So heavy was the loss of the archbishop, who was new to his office, that he was obliged to solicit the pecuniary assistance of the religious houses in his diocese.³ Military men, in contempt for the clerical combatants, called that assemblage on the battle-field the chapter of Myton. But military men found it easier to sneer at the vanquished than to catch the victors. The Scots easily eluded the royal army that was let loose upon their track, and got safely home over the western moors. In 1322 they paid another visit to Yorkshire and did much mischief in the archdeaconry of Cleveland. The canons of Marton in Galtres and the nuns of Molsby and Rosedale¹ were obliged for a while to seek new homes, to such an abject state of poverty had they been plunged. The little priory of Eggleston, so well known by its proximity to Rokeby, and its beautiful situation on the green bank of the Tees, was so hopelessly impoverished that it was excluded from all subsequent taxations.² After this last-mentioned inroad there is little about Scottish affairs in this volume until we come to the deeply interesting letters which describe the invasions which ended in the signal check which the Scots received at the battle of Neville's Cross.³ The monks of Durham, with just pride, send to their absent bishop the tidings of that noble victory which was won on the slopes of those green hills which look down upon St. Cuthbert's towers. The pennons of the Scottish nobles which were captured on the field decked for centuries the sanctuary of that great northern cathedral, the monks of which had gone fearlessly almost into the press of the battle-field; and, circling the banner of their saint, had striven by their orisons to evoke in behalf of their compatriots that strengthening protection which Cuthbert, as they believed, in each hour of supreme peril was so ready to bestow. Never had there been so great a crisis as this in the history of that church. The sufferings of the prior and convent of Durham won the sympathy of all, for no religious community could have been more deeply tried. We need not wonder at the aversion with which the Scottish nation was regarded, long after the wars between the two peoples had come to an end. No person of that nation was allowed to become a citizen of places like York and Newcastle, and in the civic registers of York, there are many certificates to show the English origin of men who were kept back from rising in their trades by being falsely charged with having been born across the Borders. In some towns in the north of England, to this very day, the name of Scot is used as a proverbial term of reproach. The pages of this volume will help to show how this dislike arose. The Scots during the later years of the wars were looked upon as excommunicated barbarians. All connexion with them was avoided and forbidden. The merchant who trafficked with them, the priest who said a mass in their presence,¹ all were involved in the same ecclesiastical sentence which bound the members of the offending nationality. The singular and romantic adventure of Roger del Hill who was carried off into Scotland by Sir Alexander Seaton, is a graphic illustration of the spirit and the feeling of the times.² There is too much evidence to show that the cruelties which were practised on the one side were as rife on the other.

These Registers give no account of the rebellion and execution of Thomas earl of Lancaster, in 1322; but in the following year archbishop Melton did his best to curb the enthusiastic affection of the numbers who regarded him as a saint.³ The strong partizanship of the north has often taken this form of expressing its sympathy. In 1327 the same primate changed his mind, and, at the request of the brother of the deceased earl, asked pope John XXII. to issue a commission of inquiry into the alleged miracles.⁴ A chapel was subsequently erected on the hill at Pontefract, where the earl had been beheaded, in which archbishops Zouche and Thoresby allowed service to be performed.⁵ In 1361 the last-mentioned prelate confirmed the ordination of a chantry therein made by a person of the name of

Simon Simeon, who has other claims than this to be remembered.¹

We have some valuable information respecting the great plague of 1349. Its advent was descried from a distance, and many an anxious prayer was made that the north might be spared. It came on relentlessly, and the whole country was filled with consternation and mourning. The state of archbishop Zouche's register at the time shows that a crisis of no ordinary character had arrived. Hugh, archbishop of Damascus, the suffragan, was sent hither and thither to consecrate new cemeteries. Clement VI. allowed every person to select his own confessor, contrary to the strictly observed principle of parochial order. But perhaps the strongest evidence of the awfulness of the mortality is to be found in the license which was granted by the same pope to archbishop Zouche, enabling him to hold supplementary ordinations to supply the ravages which the plague had made among the ranks of the clergy.² There were not priests enough remaining in the parishes within the province to administer the sacraments of the church. The numerous vacancies recorded in the livings during the year show that the Yorkshire priests had fallen like leaves before the gale. They, at least, did not shrink from the performance of their duty. Archbishop Zouche himself escaped unscathed, but from the circumstance that he made his will in the year of the great sickness, we can see that he was not unprepared to share the fate of so many of his clergy.

After this year, as I have already stated, the registration of documents of great public interest in the northern episcopal act-books almost entirely ceases. I have selected a few from one of the old ledger-books of the mayor and corporation of York, which appear at the end of this volume. Master Roger de Burton, the common clerk of that city, was an antiquary in his way, and has inserted in the register under his custody several papers relating to matters extraneous to his charge.¹ The letter of the king of Jerusalem is a pleasing instance of eastern courtesy to two Yorkshire knights of renown, which Burton, for the credit of his county, would be glad to preserve.² The zeal of the same officer has also placed upon record for the use of his city various proceedings of parliament in the reigns of Richard II. and Henry IV.; and, with the past glory of York in his mind, he has transcribed into his register the chronicle of the archbishops, to which the name of Thomas Stubbs is attached as the author. A full account of this MS., which is of no mean value, will be given elsewhere. It is quite possible that Burton was a friend of Stubbs himself. From the same book we derive the account of the seizure of such effects belonging to Henry, lord Scrope of Masham, as were found in the city of York.³ We can well imagine the consternation that would be caused in the north by the news of his untimely decease. Not only was he a nobleman of the greatest influence by birth and marriage and wealth, but at the time of his death he was the lay-patron of York minster itself. And, more than that, he was the nephew of Richard Scrope, archbishop of York, to whose fate his own was so strangely assimilated. Men would be tempted to think that the memory of the uncle's crime had made the sovereign less merciful than he might have been to the nephew. The great lord of Masham, in a will which was never carried out, had elected to be laid down to rest in the little chapel of St. Stephen in York minster which sheltered the mutilated body of his exalted kinsman. With minute forethought he had arranged the ordering of his exequies and his tomb.¹ The place he chose knows him not. The wealth that he apportioned to others came into the hands of the king.

The notices of scholars and historians in this volume may very properly be remarked upon. The accompanying memorial of Roger Hoveden was discovered too late to be inserted in the text of this volume, and too late also to find a place in the new edition of his chronicle which has so recently been published.

This document proves the accuracy of Professor Stubbs' conjecture that Hoveden was one of the early rectors of that little market-town in Yorkshire, whence he derives his name. This is placed beyond doubt or question by an extract from a roll preserved at Durham, in which it is stated that he died during the pontificate of archbishop Geoffrey Plantagenet, a short time probably after the termination of his chronicle.² In 1293 we have a notice of another well-known writer, Peter de Langtoft. Archbishop Romanus complains to the prior and convent of Bridlington that their brother canon had gone into the south, alleging falsely that he himself had sanctioned his absence.³ The primate orders him in peremptory terms to be recalled and punished for such a breach of conventional discipline. The archbishop had evidently no sympathy for that longing after the acquisition of knowledge, which, in all probability, carried Langtoft into the south. We have, possibly, every reason to be thankful for that journey. There would be but little for the historian to learn in the seclusion of Bridlington, lying as it does on its green slope between a little frequented seaboard and the eastern highlands of Yorkshire. In 1302 we have a glimpse of another Yorkshire writer, Walter of Heming-brough,¹ but only in his official position as subprior of Gisbrough, coming as a member of a deputation to archbishop Corbridge to explain to him the pecuniary condition of his house. In 1319 we have a master Adam Mirymouth acting as an agent in a pecuniary transaction between the archbishops of Canterbury and York.² Whether he was the chronicler of that name or not must be a matter of opinion.

There are many documents in this volume which throw considerable light upon the history of the church and its rulers, especially the two sets of articuli cleri, presented to the king in Parliament, which occur in the York registers.³ The earlier set, which appears to have been drawn up between 1279 and 1285, is one of singular importance. The later series dates, in an amended form, from the city of York, in 1316. There is also some interesting information about the proceedings of the northern convocation.

It is curious to trace the connexion between the northern primates and the popes. The tone and language of the letters which passed from York to Rome indicate a degree of submission which may be looked for, perhaps, in vain in the province of Canterbury. The York service books also are more after the Roman standard than those of the Salisbury use. It seems probable enough that the rulers in the north threw themselves into the arms of the papal court, to secure, if possible, a stronger position against the claims of the southern archbishops. The question of supremacy was regarded at York as a matter of the most vital importance. The struggle about the cross bearing, and the disgraceful scenes which it occasioned, is only one evidence of the bitter feelings aroused by this strife which no compromise could allay. Were it not for the records of this war of independence, we should have had no historians of the church of York at all. Scotland, by the force of its national politics, was frequently anti-papal; Canterbury carried with it, for the most part, the support of the sovereign and his parliament; and so, York, for self-protection as it were, devoted itself more closely to the papal interests, and lent a readier ear to the papal behests. The letter of archbishop Giffard to Gregory X., in 1272, shows the lowliness of his submission,¹ and surely the patience of archbishop Melton must have been sorely tried ere he could sit down and entreat the forgiveness of John XXII., for having done what was simply his duty in consecrating Robert de Graystones, the historian, to the see of Durham.² The two papers relating to this unfortunate and extraordinary proceeding cannot be read without astonishment and regret.

Between the archbishops of York and the bishops of Durham there was, as is well-known, an almost continual struggle. Canterbury was happy in having suffragans so docile; it was far different in the north. The ancient privileges of the great palatinate of Durham, and the strange manner in which it had absorbed and retained parts of Yorkshire itself, the unequalled wealth and influence of the bishops, were a continual sore to the archbishops of York. It is difficult to be a subject without rendering submission; to be a prince and at the same time an inferior to a less potent chief. The archbishops generally strove to manifest their power over the bishopric of Durham by attempting to exercise the metropolitanical privilege of visitation. Archbishop Wickwaine began the struggle in 1280, and on one occasion was in danger of losing his life near the capital of the prince palatine. His successor carried on the warfare with still greater vigour, but John Romanus was no match for Anthony Bek. In 1292 two messengers went from York to Durham with a letter, and Bek threw them into prison. The archbishop responded by excommunicating the persons implicated, but no one seems to have been willing to serve the sentence within the bishopric, not even Bogo de Clare, the nobly born treasurer of York, who had once made an officer eat a writ which he had ventured to serve on him.¹ The result was the complete discomfiture of Romanus, as the king took the matter up, and the payment of a heavy fine into the royal exchequer took the place of the amends which he expected. In 1300 archbishop Corbridge wrote to Bek deprecating his treatment of the prior and monks of Durham, whom he had imprisoned for three days within the walls of their house, without water and almost without food.² In 1310 archbishop Greenfield succeeded in holding a visitation of the diocese of Durham, the details of which are recorded on a long parchment roll, still preserved in the registry at York. In 1328 there was a renewal of the strife when archbishop Melton wished to visit the Yorkshire jurisdictions which were dependent upon Durham.³ Bishop Beaumont kept the primate off with a force of armed men. The scene in York minster, in 1349, need only be mentioned to be wondered at. A peace was made in this century between the two sees, but as for amity, there was little or none.

The bishops of Man, during the period covered by this volume, did not recognize the jurisdiction of York, and there was no attempt to enforce their submission. The bishops of Carlisle were dutiful suffragans, but they lived in comparative quietude, and we hear little about them. But the see most of all dependent upon York was that of Whitherne in Galloway. Scottish in position, English in association and feeling, the bishops of that turbulent diocese were most unhappily situated. They knew not which way to turn. They were willing enough to act as suffragans to their metropolitan at York, and to do his work; but when they came home, if they were allowed to remain there at all, they were regarded as enemies to Scotland. For a long time they were exiles from their diocese, working for the archbishops of York, wretchedly paid, and addressed and treated too much as if they were his menial servants. A painful difference is observable between a letter which the primate would write to a bishop of London or Winchester and his poor suffragan at Whitherne, generally the most faithful ally that he had in the north.¹ In 1287 (?) archbishop Romanus writes to an officer of the papal court in behalf of Henry, bishop of Whitherne. He had been required to pay a debt of 80 marks,² an inconsiderable sum in itself, which had been due from his predecessor, who had been dead for more than 20 years; but the wars and the troubles within his diocese had driven him into Yorkshire, where he had been for a long while eking out a subsistence by dedicating churches for the archbishop. This unfortunate prelate died in 1293, just as the Scottish feuds were rising to fever heat, and a struggle took place between Robert de Brus and John de Balliol about the appointment of his successor.³ In 1304 Brus wrote a vehement letter to archbishop Corbridge, in which the bishop of Whitherne is introduced, about some injury that had been done to the property of his son Alexander, then a scholar at Cambridge, at his living of Carnmoel, in Galloway.⁴ This is the benefice which archbishop Greenfield subsequently assigned for the augmentation of the income of the see of Whitherne.¹ The bishop at the time was living in Yorkshire, for Scottish hate drove him out of his diocese. Whether this augmentation was carried out or not, it is impossible to say. At all events, it must have been, for many years at least, a very precarious addition. What could be derived from a parish where there would very frequently be nothing whatever to tithe. The reivers on both sides of the Borders would look well to that. In 1326 we have the full process of the consecration of Simon, abbat of Holyrood, to the same bishopric.² He seems to have been the last of the bishops of Whitherne that paid any submission to York.³ The papers which this volume contains relative to these obscure prelates add much to what has been hitherto known of the history of Whitherne.

In 1306 we have two most valuable letters about the treason of Robert, bishop of Glasgow. He had been captured, in arms, in a beleaguered castle, and, as a punishment, was kept in prison for the remainder of his life.⁴ Soon after this we find a bishop of the same see acting as a suffragan in the diocese of York, which would no doubt have been delighted if the see of Glasgow had been disposed to return to its ancient dependence. This prelate, a person of the name of Ecclesclif, or Ecclesfeld,⁵ was probably an Englishman, and the people of Glasgow would regard him as an intruder and an alien. We may venture, I think, to identify him with John of Eggescliff, who appears in 1322 as bishop of Connor, in Ireland, and afterwards of Llandaff. He was a Dominican friar, and would be less troubled, therefore, than other men by a restless and migratory life.

cannot but be startled by the outrages to which ecclesiastics of the highest distinction were frequently subjected. Assaults upon clergymen and bishops, sacrilege in various forms, are almost unknown in these days. They were of frequent occurrence a few centuries ago. We can account, to a certain extent, for the treatment which archbishop Wickwaine received at Durham in 1283, as the men of the palatinate would regard him as an intruder; but we may well be astonished at the scene in Beverley minster in the preceding year, when the same prelate got up into the pulpit of the chief temple in his own town to preach, and was not only shouted down by the spectators, but driven out of the church.¹ In 1328 archbishop Melton complained to Edward III. that he had been twice prevented from holding a visitation of York minster by an armed force, arrayed there no doubt by the dean and chapter with whom he was so bitterly at variance.² An assault upon the bishop of Carlisle about the same time was of so grievous a character, that the aid of the metropolitan was called in to provide a punishment for the crime.³ But all these outrages pale before an incident that befell Louis de Beaumont, bishop-elect of Durham, as he was riding leisurely along in the train of two cardinals, at the distance of a few miles from the chief city of his diocese.⁴ They had reached a little place called Rushyford, which lies at the foot of the hill, from the summit of which the travellers would get their first view of St. Cuthbert's towers, and they were riding in careless ease, when all at once a Northumbrian knight and an armed force surrounded them, and the cardinals and their suite found to their cost that brigandage was not confined to Italy alone. They were stripped and plundered of everything. The reivers left the cardinals a couple of horses to carry them on to Durham, storming as they rode, but they took Beaumont and his brother Henry with them into Northumberland, and shut them up in Mitford castle until a ransom was provided. It was long before this outrage was forgotten in the north. But it seems strange to censure laymen for assaulting the clergy, when the clergy were unable to keep the peace among themselves. The struggles between the two primates about the often-disputed question of bearing the cross were painful and disgraceful in the extreme. And what they did, others of a less exalted rank were not slow to imitate. Churches and parsonage houses were often assailed and defended as if they were fortresses, and the whole countryside rang with the oft-recurring news of cases of assault and battery in which ecclesiastics were the combatants.

I shall mention a few detached documents as worthy of special attention, and then these prefatory remarks must come to an end.

In 1294 the register of bishop Halton at Carlisle contains a new and most minute account of the resignation of pope Celestine V.¹ The great chronicler of the members of the sacred college does not hesitate to speak of the intrigue which caused this cession, as one of the dark spots in the annals of the Roman court. A new light is thrown upon the event by the paragraph at the end of the paper in the Carlisle register. We can see what sympathy was felt for the retiring pontiff far beyond the confines of Italy.

In November 1309, we have a letter from Philip king of France,² in which he endeavoured to stimulate archbishop Greenfield to take energetic action against the unfortunate knights of the Temple. The registers at York show what he did, but there are no depositions to tell us the enormities which the unhappy culprits were charged with or acknowledged. The members of the order within the province of York were dispersed among the monasteries in the district, and were for the most part unwelcome guests; but there they remained, until they had proved their penitence, and had shown that their submission was unfeigned. Then they were incorporated with some other order, or sent out with a pension into the world.

In 1311 we have a memorial from the bishops and clergy of the provincial council at York, addressed to the king on behalf of Walter de Langton, bishop of Coventry and Lichfield, who was then a prisoner in the castle of York.¹ He is said to have been implicated in one of the conspiracies of the day. The petitioners speak, of course, of his imprisonment as an indignity to the episcopal order, and they would plead for him with the greater earnestness as he was a friend and a compatriot. Langton had held high preferment in the north, and William de Langton, dean of York, was his kinsman and patron in early life.

We have two documents in this volume in connexion with a subject which, in modern as well as ancient times, has excited no little interest and speculation. I mean the matrimonial adventures of John last earl of Warren and Surrey. As soon as he succeeded to the earldom, Edward I. married him to his grand-daughter, Joan de Bar, but the union was a childless one, and the earl formed an illicit connexion with a lady of the name of Matilda de Neyrford, by whom he had issue. In 1314 we find him suing for a divorce from his countess in the ecclesiastical court of York, and archbishop Greenfield taking the matter up.² The earl pleads his youth at the time of his marriage, and his too close relationship to the lady, and they were ultimately separated. The depositions taken in the case are not in existence at York, although some others are still preserved of as early a date. Contemporaneously with this action, measures were taken against Matilda de Neyrford who was the real cause of all this domestic unhappiness. We have a graphic account of the serving of the citation upon her by the bishop of Durham.¹

If any one is in quest of a wild and romantic story, let him read the complaint which Edward III. made to Innocent VI. against Richard Ledred, bishop of Ossory.² That prelate is known already to the historical student through documentary evidence derived from other repositories, but here we have a record of his life and the details of his iniquities. Could such a state of things be possible in any other country? A man who was a centenarian in age, deaf, diseased in body, and at times a lunatic, sets up in his diocese an inquisition of his own, and creates so widely-spread a terror by his ferocity and extortion, that even the royal justices of assize shrank from the neighbourhood of the perpetrator of the crimes which it was their duty to repress! The king, apparently as helpless as his officers, writes to the pope for his assistance.

We have a document, dated in 1387,³ which carries us back to a time when the Christian world was in dismay at the tumults and the conspiracies at Rome: Urban VI. had made Adam of Eston, or Easton, in Norfolk, sometime a monk at Norwich, cardinal-priest with the title of St. Cecilia. He merited that dignity as he was a scholar and author of renown, and, among other honours, he held in England the rich deanery of York. It was his fate, however, to be implicated in the ecclesiastical intrigues of the time, and Urban, who had exalted him before, now sentenced him to the torture and the dungeon. His English origin won for him the sympathy of England. The chapter-general of the black monks in this country appealed in his behalf to the chief pontiff, and sent a special proctor to Rome to represent them in their suit. The king was equally urgent, and these efforts were successful. The letter of the English Benedictines is recorded in one of the registers of the monastery of Durham, one of the grandest foundations belonging to that illustrious brotherhood.

Farther comment on the subject-matter of this volume is unnecessary. I have mentioned some of its most prominent features, but not all. The rest must speak for themselves. In conclusion, I have only to express again my gratitude to the keepers of the several repositories that have been thrown open to me. The privilege is one that I have always enjoyed. If any one is in quest of the district where ecclesiastical registers are most accessible to any painstaking inquirer, and where they are most carefully preserved, he must come into the North.

Ad quem terminum, super quo et specialius certificari poterit per præsentium portitorem, si ad nos venire voluerit, paratos nos inveniet ad exhibendum sibi justitiæ complementum. Postremo, noveritis nos aliquantulum admirari de eo quod in directa nobis vestra epistola asserere voluistis commissam nobis a sede Apostolica potestatem, mortuo mandatore, re integra exspirasse; quoniam, si hoc ex eo vultis concludere, quod ecclesia post mortem mandatoris vacasse dinoscitur, vel quia illam post mortem ipsius contulimus, utrum consequentia de jure teneat, suppositis quibusdam quæ vos latent et in facto consistunt, poterit in dubium merito revocari. Præterea, licet transcripta quæ vidimus, si respiciantur interius, factum nostrum vix contingant in aliquo, quia psalterium in multis discordat a cithara, hæc tamen, et alia quæ prædictus magister Johannes pro jure suo dicere poterit et voluerit, sibi cupimus usquequaquam servari. Valete.

We gave the living of Kirkby Kendal to Adam de Norfolk, according to papal provision; to this your chancellor, John de Asgarby, objects. We are ready to hear what he has to say without fear or favour, and are astonished at your letter about the matter.

confoveri. Unde, secundum quod perhibet Dionysii Magni auctoritas, nihil existendum erit quod ab omni pacis deciderit penitus unitate: Quod enim, inquit, omnino inquietum et illocatum est, nec ens est, nec in existentibus esse potest. Nam, sicut scribit Philosophus, nec naturæ forent si non qualicumque pace substarent. Pax, inquam, ut ait quidam Sapiens, omni regno desiderabilis esse debet, sub qua et populi recte proficiunt, et utilitas gentium procuratur. Hæc enim, inquit, bonarum est artium pulchra mater; hæc genus mortalium reparabili successione multiplicans facultates protendit, mores excolit, et tantarum rerum ignarus agnoscitur qui eandem minime quæsisisse sentitur. Ob istas quidem et alias causas utiles et urgentes, quæ nostræ inspectioni sæpius occurrerunt, labores corporis graves crebro subivimus, indicibiles mentis molestias passi sumus, ac multis periculis, postquam intravimus dictum regnum, submisimus nos et nostros; ut, peste dissensionum per nostram operam, Deo adiutore, sedata, eidem pacis accederet pulchritudo: sed hoste humani foederis operante in regno ipso ulterius seditionum piacula, crevit livor, generata sunt odia, homicidia perpetrata, illata quoque non modica damna ecclesiis ac personis ecclesiasticis et mundanis, quæ nequeunt æstimari; et multiplicata sunt scelera infinita, pro quorum immanitate tanto intrinsecus arctiores perferimus cruciatus, quanto dissidia hujusmodi fore prospicimus graviora. Sane dum apud London. nuper quorundam præsumptio efferveret in excellentissimum principem, regem suum ac dominum naturalem, et bellica strages hinc inde hostiliter immineret, ac mutuæ voluntatis undique pararentur ad cædes; nos eo sollicitius laboravimus statum regni ejusdem ponere in tranquillo, quo rem ad deteriora vergi conspeximus, et vicinius anxios minarentur terrores, horrenda discrimina imminentium præliorum. Quapropter, post varios et diversos vicissim habitos in hac parte trac-tatus, tandem, non sine multæ difficultatis obstaculo, We had lately a conference at London with the bishops, etc., and resolved that the disinherited should have their lands restored to them on redeeming them for a fixed sum.

nos, civitatem London ingressi, una cum aliis pontificibus et prælatis tunc præsentibus, inter alia quædam ardua paci necessaria et utilia expedita, ibidem sollicitè ordinavimus, qualiter tam præsentium quam præteritarum rebellionum et inimicitiarum tempestas regni prævalida sedaretur. Cæterum ad id tunc viam sequi nequivimus aptiorem, quam ut nobilibus exhæredatis, idoneas exponentibus cautiones, quod, juxta formam in dicto de Kenilleworthe per prælatos et procures dicti regni communiter ordinato contentam, statutas in eo redemptiones exsolvant, terrarumque suarum restitutio eis fiat. Verum quia iidem nobiles nequiverunt hoc facere vel promittere, nisi eis subventio fieret aliunde, nobis humiliter supplicarunt ut sibi misericorditer faceremus a clero regni auxilium in hac parte pro bono pacis conveniens exhiberi. Nos siquidem, licet, inter alia quæ incumbunt in ecclesiis Anglicanis gravamina, ab hujus adjectione oneris gravamur, nobiscum tamen et dictis pontificibus et prælatis, censentes consultius anteferri minora damna majoribus, et, secundum sanctorum Patrum doctrinam, quæ minori nexu tenentur, super hoc salubriter eligentes sub certa forma honesta et congrua, toti clero providimus dictis nobilibus, ac ecclesiis, et personis ecclesiasticis certum fore subsidium impendendum; proviso tamen quod nullo ecclesiarum et cleri præsidio gaudeant, nisi prius in regno tranquillitas affecta succedat; unde majores ipsorum nobilium cum eorum sequacibus ea vice mandata domini regis et nostra sub spe ipsius subsidii præsentialiter juraverunt, quod quidam in brevi facient, et ipsorum complices qui morantur in insula Elyensi: et ita, favente Deo, cœpit esse tempus pacificum, quod enormiter hactenus noscitur exstasse turbatum. Ideoque universitatem vestram monemus, ac rogamus in Domino, et hortamur attente vobis in remissionem peccaminum, auctoritate qua fungimur in-

They begged the clergy to aid them in paying this money, and, notwithstanding our many burdens, we agreed to do so, for the sake of peace.

Thereupon the nobles made a promise to pay, as well for themselves as for their accomplices in the Isle of Ely.

We most earnestly exhort you to carry out this arrangement.

jungentes quatenus dirigatis, ut convenit, studiosum vestræ considerationis intuitum ad præmissa, pensantes quanti muneris vitam habere pacificam et vitare molestam; nihilominus attendentes, quod, vobismet ipsis prudenter partitis, si libenter, prædictis nobilibus pro communi nostro et omnium regnicolarum commodo subveniatis, in quo accendi privatum non potest incommodum, quod favore agitur et jam singulorum; nec prætendatis id ipsum hostibus fieri qui ad ecclesiæ pacem et regiam sunt reversi. Exsurgat vestra in Christo sinceritas, et provisa tam gratæ pacis primordia non recuset: quinimmo qualitas vestra lætetur, ac velit hoc sponte nunc peragi quod re ipsa mereatur et absque instantia hortatoris impendi. Accedat itaque tam hilariter quam libenter vestra devotio ad consensum subsidii quod prosequimur, ut, quo nobis gratantius super hæc acquiescitis, eo vestris affectibus alias promptius condescendere debeamus. Nos enim omnibus, quorum in hac parte patuerit promptitudo, intendimus esse benevoli, et pro loco et tempore gratiosi. Postremo, quicquid exinde faciendum duxeritis, tam celeriter quam fideliter nobis per vestras patentes literas intimetis. Data, London., non. Julii, pontificatus domini Clementis papæ Quarti anno tertio.

Anno incarnationis Domini m^occ^ol^x. nono, ad Pentecosten, ita convenit inter nobilem mulierem, dominam Johannam de Estutevill, ex una parte, et venerabilem patrem dominum W., Dei gratia Ebor. archiepiscopum, Angliæ primatem, et capitulum Eboracense, ex altera. Videlicet, quod prædicta domina Johanna, in propria viduitate et legitima potestate sua, concessit et confirmavit, pro se et hæredibus suis, dicto domino archiepiscopo et successoribus suis, quod omnes gurgites et sepes ejusdem dominæ Johannæ per totam aquam de Hull prosternantur et penitus amoveantur perpetuo: ita, scilicet, quod naves et batelli ab aqua quæ dicitur Humbre usque Beverlacum, eundo, commorando et redeundo, per totam dictam aquam de Hull, sine omni damno seu alio impedimento ipsius dominæ vel hæredum suorum, navigare possint libere

Et quod dicta domina J. et hæredes sui, tempore

antecessores ipsius dominæ J. temporibus retroactis facere consueverunt. Ita tamen quod mercatores vel nautæ nullum impedimentum sentiant per catenam prædictam: et quod homines dictæ dominæ J., de Hull, sumere possint terram, tam infra aquam de Hull quam extra, pro voluntate sua, ad emendationem fossati quod dicitur Se-dik, quotienscumque necesse fuerit et videabbate et conventu de Melsa, de centum solidis quos dicti abbas et conventus præfato archiepiscopo solvere consueverunt pro tenemento quod idem abbas et conventus tenent de eodem archiepiscopo in villa de Waghen; ad duos anni terminos, videlicet ad Pente-costen quadraginta solidos, et ad festum Sancti Mar-

Domino J. comiti Warenniæ salutem. Turbationis maliciam et guerræ dudum habitæ, necnon oppresiones occasione ejusdem sedata fuisse speravimus: sed modo miramur quod vos, sicut dicitur, exactionem novam suscitatis, ratione guerræ prædictæ, penitus inauditam: unde, quia de ea non fuit inter nos et confratres nostros tractatum nec etiam cogitatum, et sine eorum consensu in contributionem aliquam, Deo propitio, nolumus consentire, serenitatem vestram attente duximus exorandam quatenus ab exactione prædicta, quoad terras et homines nostros, dimitti penitus jubebatis, ita quod nullam exinde sentiant molestiam vel gravamen; nosque super hoc alia via, secundum Deum et justitiam, procedere non cogamur. THE ANSWER OF THE BISHOPS GRANTING A VINTISME
TO HENRY III.

(Reg. archiep. Giffard, 105 a.)

Quantumcumque gravati fuerimus his diebus,¹ cupientes tamen honestis desideriis domini regis et liberorum suorum pro viribus acquiescere, ad tam pium propositum suum prosequendum, nos, episcopi, qui præsentes fuimus, quantum in nobis est, parati sumus eisdem gratanter subvenire de vicesima terrarum nostrarum et tenementorum feudalium quæ tenemus in dominico; et etiam nativorum nostrorum, seu rusticorum, secundum taxationem per nos bona-fide faciendam, absque ulla taxatione per aliquem alium faciendam. Ita quod hujusmodi subsidium assignetur domino regi, vel primogenito suo, qui primo in Terram Sanctam transfretaverit, in subsidium ipsius terræ, et non ad aliud convertendum. Et penes nos remaneat depositum, quousque unus eorum iter arripuerit cum effectu. Ita etiam quod nativi, seu rustici nostri, nullatenus onerentur ulterius in tallagio laicorum. Et, ne fiat nobis, vel successoribus, vel ecclesiis nostris imposterum præjudicium occasione hujus concessionis, petimus literas domini regis super hoc patentes.

Circa April 27, 1270. We grant a Vintisme from our fees to the king or his son, whichever shall go to the Holy Land first. We shall collect it, and retain it until the journey is actually begun.

¹ This response is also entered on the Register of the archbishop's brother, Godfrey Giffard, bishop of Worcester, which contains some valuable public documents. The date of this reply is fixed by No. XVIII.

H., Dei gratia, etc., priori Wygornensi salutem.
Cum nos et filii nostri, cum cæteris regni nostri crucesignatis, ad partes transmarinas in subsidium Terræ Sanctæ profecturi, et iter nostrum in crastino instantis festi Sancti Johannis Baptistæ arrepturi sumus; et, instante tam brevi termino passagii nostri, necesse habeamus cum omni maturitate providere de pecunia et aliis ad hoc necessariis, et etiam de pace et securitate regni nostri post recessum nostrum; propter quod vobis nuper mandavimus quod ad nos (veneritis) in quindena Paschæ proximo præterita; ad quem diem venerabilis pater W., Ebor. archiepiscopus, et episcopi et prælati regni nostri, ad mandatum nostrum venerunt pro negotiis prædictis; et nos pro nostris et regni nostri negotiis arduis, de quibus cum præfatis archiepiscopo et episcopis ac aliis prælatis et magnatibus ejusdem regni nostri tunc tractatum habuimus specialem; de tractatu nobiscum habendo supersedimus ad præsens propter quod vos a curia nostra sine colloquio nobiscum habito recessistis; ac nos postmodum, hujusmodi negotiis nostris arduis expeditis, prædictos archiepiscopum et episcopos rogavimus ut ipsi vicesimam bonorum et catallorum suorum et villanorum suorum nobis concederent, in subsidium Terræ prædictæ; qui vicesimam illam nobis sui gratia liberaliter concesserunt. Nos, perpendentes quod passagium nostrum prædictum, si parliamentum vel tractatum aliquem vobiscum super hoc haberemus, posset de facili impediri; et attendentes quod ex quo episcopi prædicti, querelam Christianæ gentis Terram Sanctam inhabitantis nobis delatam intuentes, nobis curialitatem prædictam concesserint, ut prædictum est, vos, qui precibus regiis hucusque amicaliter annuistis, vicesimam hujusmodi in subsidium Terræ prædictæ velle nobis concedere liberaliter et benigne; vos affectuose requirimus et rogamus quatenus prædictam vicesimam bonorum vestrorum et villanorum vestrorum nobis pari curialitate concedentes, taxatores et collectores nostros dictæ vicesimæ bona vestra et villanorum vestrorum taxare, et hujusmodi vicesimam colligere permittatis, sicut vicesima alibi taxatur et colligitur in regno nostro. Ita quod vicesimam, vos et villanos vestros contingentem, citra dictum tempus passagii nostri modis omnibus habeamus nobiscum deferendam ad prædictam Terram. Et hoc, sicut nos et honorem nostrum et negotium crucis diligitis, et sicut de vobis confidimus, nullo modo omittatis. Mandavimus enim collectoribus et taxatoribus nostris prædictis, quod bona vestra et villanorum vestrorum taxari, et vicesimam inde levare et colligi faciant, in forma sibi per nos tradita et injuncta. Teste meipso apud Westmonasterium, xij. die Maii, anno regni nostri liij.

Litera consimilis, fere per omnia, mandatur vicecomiti Wygornensi; et quod, si necesse fuerit, ipsam vicesimam levare faciant in manu forti.

EXCOMMUNICATION BY THE BISHOPS OF PRINCE EDWARD AND THE EARL OF GLOUCESTER, IF THEY BREAK
THE AFORESAID AWARD.(Reg. archiep. Giffard, 74 b.)

In nomine Domini, Amen. Cum jam sæpius publice et solemniter promulgata fuerit sententia excommunicationis contra omnes illos qui pacem et tranquillitatem domini regis et regni, et qui votum cruce signatorum et peregrinationem in subsidium Terræ Sanctæ impedire vel turbare præsumpserint; et ratione quarundam contentionum nuper exortarum inter nobiles viros dominos Edwardum, domini regis primogenitum, et Gilbertum comitem Gloucestræ prædicti regni time-retur perturbatio, et etiam dilatio peregrinationis prædictæ: nos, episcopi, volentes tanto periculo præcavere, prædictos nobiles adeo efficaciter induximus, quod super hujusmodi contentionibus inter ipsos motis, pro bono pacis, arbitrio sive dicto illustris regis Allemanniæ se, alte et basse, juramento interposito, submiserunt, sicut in literis super hoc confectis plenius continetur. Quapropter, nos, episcopi Cantuariensis provincie, de consensu et voluntate venerabilis patris W. Ebor. archiepiscopi, prout tenemur, saluti animarum dictorum nobilium et tranquillitatem totius regni prospicere cupientes, ipsos nobiles viros, semel, secundo, et tertio monemus et exhortamur in Domino Christo, ut prædictum domini regis arbitrium, sive dictum, æquitate subnixum, ad pacis observationem salubriter promulgatum, gratanter admittant, sicut juraverunt; et ipsum firmiter observent, ut tenentur: alioquin omnes illos qui contra hujusmodi dictum temere venire præsumpserint, et pacem et tranquillitatem regis et regni

W. primas, etc., suo præcordiali, archidiacono Ebor., salutem, gratiam, et, cum Dei benedictione, dilectionem semper sinceram. Pro custodia castri Notingham quicquam improbe non petemus, et ea vellemus nobis concedi quæ ante nos alius habuerit pro eadem. Sane pro certo didicimus quod molendina et prata ad dictum castrum pertinentia domino Edwardo concessa fuerint pro custodia memorata, et Johannes Page, cui castrum commiserat, eadem habuit vice sua. Quocirca devotionem vestram requirimus cum effectum, quatenus dicta molendina et prata nobis procuretis, ut diximus, de plano concedi, et breve domini regis super hoc, ut convenit, nobis dari: ita quod de exitibus com' respondeamus ad scaccariam, sicut etiam litera, quam inde habemus, plenius continetur. A LETTER FROM RICHARD BISHOP OF LINCOLN TO THE ARCHBISHOP OF YORK.

(Reg. archiep. Giffard, 75 a.)

Venerabili in Christo patri W., Dei gratia, etc., R., Ejusdem permissione Lincolniensis ecclesiæ minister humilis, salutem et sinceræ caritatis in Domino semper augmentum. Anxiamur ex intimo cordis nostri de infortunio quod accidit in abbathia de Elvestowe, et dolor hujusmodi eo acerbius ex pia compassione nos affligit, quod ex eo frequentius quam ex alia domo nobis subdita turpium factorum scandala oriuntur; et licet ex hoc quorundam persuasionibus contra abbatisam et sororem² vestram, quæ ex conniventia seu remissione culpabiles dicebantur, aliquantulum moti fuerimus usquemodo, quia tamen honorem vestri sanguinis, contemplatione vestra et venerabilis patris fratris vestri specialiter affectione zelamus, curabimus, quantum secundum Deum et honestatem poterimus, et absque sæculari scandalo, commissum quod accidit secretius emendare, et patentibus ulceribus occultam apponere medicinam. Unde, si placet, ulterius non conturbet mentem vestram graviter eventus infortunii Biggleswade, June 25, 1270. Disorders have taken place in the nunnery of Elvestow, in which the abbess and your sister are concerned. We will correct them firmly but quietly, out of regard to you and your brother (the bishop of Worcester).

¹ I have assigned this document to the year 1270 because, from the Liberate given in Archbishop Giffard's register, it appears that he spent much time at Nottingham in that year. On Oct. 5, 1270, there is a payment of 11*l.* 18*s.* 3*d.* to Hugh de Babington, the archbishop's nephew, "ad negotia nostra in castro Nottingham expedientia" (Reg. Giffard, 54 a).

memorati, quoniam desiderium vestrum per clericum vestrum et nostrum, magistrum G. de Sancto Leopardo, de plano nobis innotuit in præmissis; et quod ex ipsius literis concepimus, favente Domino, complēbimus, prout Divino beneplacito et honori et sanguinis vestri viderimus convenire. Valeat reverenda paternitas vestra in Domino per tempora diuturna. Data apud Bicheswad, vij. kalendas Julii (1270).

THE ARCHBISHOP OF YORK WRITES TO MR. R. DE NEDHAM, HIS PROCTOR AT ROME.

(Reg. archiep. Giffard, 61 b.)

Suo dilecto, magistro R. de Nedham, salutem. Reverendi patres domini Ricardus Hambal et Matheus Rubeus, sacrosanctæ Romanæ ecclesiæ cardinales, nos semel et iterum per suas sollicitavere scripturas, quod eis subvenire pro suis indigentiis curaremus, causas allegantes multiplices quare sic petere sunt coacti. Nos, autem, eis rescripsimus quod, sicut satis perpendisse poterant, nobis similia contigerint; et adjecimus statum nostrum tenerum et impotentiam nostram, per importunitates complurimas, respirandi, quæ nondum minime cessaverunt, sed magis pullulant, ut veremur, sicut vos sibi poteritis enarrare. Novistis enim præterita, et de novis vos docebimus vel in parte. Scitis, inquam, quod dominus Edwardus, in suo recessu, cuncta eum contingentia post ipsum dimissa domino regi Alemanniæ, nobis, dominis Philippo de Basset, R. de Mortuomari, et R. Burnel commisit, et, quicquid contingat onus curæ, se magis ingerit inter alios collo nostro; et sic majoribus perurgemur expensis, quia turbulentis quibusdam oportet resistere cum cautela; latronibus et prædatoribus, quorum numerus nimis excrevit, parare resistentiam, et eorum astutias annulhis deputies, and we have a great share of work. Plundering must be suppressed. Lewellyn is about to attack Caerphilly castle, and the earl of Gloucester, its owner, calls for help. The king is ill, so we are obliged to be much with him. The famine and scarcity of this year and the last have exhausted our funds. Make the most of these things with the cardinals, and give to one 25 marks, to the other 10*l.* or 10 marks. Be sure, however, to give the new Pope 100 marks, to win his favour, and be sure to tell us who he is.

London, Nov. 3, 1271. The cardinals want money, but we have none for them.

lare ; quamquam, sicut dicitur, fautores habeant satis magnos. Leulinus, insuper, descendit ad castrum comitis Gloucestre, quod vocatur Kerfili, et illud obsidet cum multitudine valde gravi, et ipse comes a domino rege et a cunctis terræ partibus subsidium sibi requirit ; quod negari non potest omnino propter stragem gravissimam quæ timetur. Dominus autem rex non est ita potens corpore sicut vellemus, et ob hoc stare magis compellimur circa ipsum ; caristia enim anni præteriti et præsentis, cum sterilitate terrarum nostrarum, omnem exhaurit pecuniam, eo quod in propriis non possumus commorari. Hæc et his similia exaggerare scietis, quæ nos de faciendo magno servitio dominis cardinalibus excusare debebunt. Providimus tamen quod dicto domino R. xxv. marcæ tantummodo præsententur ; et x. libræ vel x. marcæ domino M. Rubeo ; proviso modis omnibus quod domino papæ, statim in sua creatione, centum marcæ ex parte nostra cautius præsententur ; et, si possetis gratiam invenire, mutui multum vellemus quod de eis et de parvo residuo ducentarum marcarum dominis cardinalibus servaretur, sicut videritis expedire, exennio domino papæ nullatenus prætermisso ; si forte possimus inde gratiam reportare, vel saltem imperpetuum subterfugere quod timemus. Proviso etiam quod in pecunia patriæ præsentetur singulis portio ordinata, ut sic saltem nomen muneri sit honestum, et in eo modicitas aliququaliter decoretur. Plura autem de nostris negotiis vos non latent, quia vobis, sicut decuit, communicata fuerunt, et de illis curabitis pro tempore, Deo dante. Alia etiam vobis mandabimus quamcitus obtulerit se facultas, dummodo de adventu domini electi in papam certiores effici valeamus ; de cujus specialitate et gratia speramus posse confidere, nisi modum mutet quem præterdit in Angliam et affectum. Valete. Data London., iij. nonas Novembris, pontificatus nostri anno quinto.

 labores emerserint occasione contentionis inter dominum nostrum regem et comitissam Flandriæ, non solum in Anglia sed etiam in partibus transmarinis, non

 Franciæ mirabiliter commovetur pro eo quod preces agendis domini nostri gratiam subtrahit et favorem.

 Hujus autem rei solliciti, contulimus cum domino terms.

Sanctissimo in Christo patri et domino, . . . Dei gratia summo pontifici, W., primas, etc., pedum oscula beatorum, cum mentis et corporis inclinatione devota. Domus Domini, quæ in lapide adjutorii super fundamentum apostolorum et prophetarum Divinitus stabilitur, sancta videlicet Romana ecclesia catholica, quæ, non solum synodicis institutis, sed evangelica voce Salvatoris, Domini nostri Jhesu Christi, principatum obtinuit, et Beato Petro et successoribus suis formam semper sacræ eruditionis et statum incolumitatis accepit, unde quod stipiti suo rami, quod capiti a quo in totum corpus salus diffunditur membra singula, quod fonti rivuli qui emanant, et soli radii exeuntes, hoc Apostolicæ sedis eminentiæ debent omnes ecclesiæ quas ubique terrarum religio Christiana fundavit. Hinc est quod ecclesia Anglicana, quæ tanto est Apostolicæ sedi devotior, quanto ejus beneficia circa se pluries inculcata cognoscit, de ipsius vacatione diutina inconsolabili afflicta dolore gemitus amariores effudit, et Dominum rogavit instantius, ut, ecclesiam Suam oculo misericordiæ respiciens, navem Petri et summi piscatoris sagenam procellis intumescensibus ulterius non committeret; sed ei et toti populo Christiano de rectore idoneo provideret. Et, ecce! clamantibus nobis ad Dominum, et emittentibus preces cum lacrymis, quasi vox lapsa de cœlo, rumor insonuit affectionatus de vestra electione concordis, qui, nubilam publici mœroris auferens, corda omnium festiviore lætitia serenavit. Communis etenim fama est et vox omnium, quod Dominus per gratiam Suam talem de filiis Suis in specula celsitudinis Apostolicæ collocare dignatus est, qui prudentia et moribus præminens cathedram Petri meritis poterit adimplere. In commune itaque cedit desiderium verboque celebri et votiva gratiarum actione publice recensetur, qualiter de sapientia suaviter universa disponens vos de gradu in gradum, de virtute in virtutem, et de honore promoverit in honorem. Quia ergo ex hominibus assumpti estis a Domino, et pro hominibus in his quæ sunt ad Deum pontifex constituti, Ipsi Qui vos elegit cum omnium gratiarum actione preces offero cum affectu, quatenus Is Qui segregavit vos, et vocavit ad dandum salutis scientiam plebi suæ in bonis dies vestros continuet, et ecclesiam suam ab omni errore purgatam sub regimine vestro et vestra provisione tranquillet. Ad hæc, pater sancte, me-ipsam, licet minimum, ecclesiæ tamen Romanæ plantulam spirituales, et omnia quæ eadem ecclesia meo regimini commendavit, vestræ dominationi devote subjicio et committo; licet quod vestrum est amplius nequeat esse vestrum. Vestris igitur utamini, sicut libet; quia promptissimus sum et ero vestris jussiones etiam obsequiis prævenire. Nam me vobis totum debere profiteor, quod servus debere domino, magistro discipulus, et filius patri potest. Non moveatur vestra paternitas pro eo quod celsitudinis vestræ nomen proprium præsentibus non inseritur, quum in recessu præsentium portitoris apud nos non extitit divulgatum. Vitam et incolumitatem vestram conservet Altissimus per tempora longiora. Data vj. kalendas Martii, anno Domini M^oCC^oLXX^o. primo.

Reverendo in Christo patri et domino, . . Dei gratia tituli Sanctæ Praxedis diacono-cardinali, W., permissione Ejusdem Eboracensis ecclesiæ minister humilis, seipsum intimo et cordiali affectu, cum omni reverentia, prosperitate et honore. Pater reverendissime, multa his diebus et a multis retro temporibus nos infortunia et angustiae variæ concusserunt, verumtamen erubescimus et tristissimo tædio desolamur quod impotentiam aliquam quavis ex causa tanto patri et benevolo prætereendere compellimur, aut flebili inopia pauperrime denuddare. Scitis siquidem, pater carissime, quot guerrarum dispendia inclytum regnum Angliæ, quod quondam abundabat in singulis, ad omnium defectum, miserias, immo quasi in nihilum redegerint. Audistis, insuper, sicut credimus, quot onera debitorum in ecclesia nostra Ebor., quæ nequaquam vel vix enarrare sufficimus, nos opprimunt et elidunt; de quibus felicitis recordationis dominus et promotor noster, Clemens papa, nobis gratiose concessit ut mille marcæ de modica fortuna nostra in partem solutionis eorundem annis singulis solve-remus. Quæ quidem annalis solutio nos ad plurima quæ vellemus efficit penitus impotentem. Immoderata etiam bonorum nostrorum, si quæ suppetant, circa regimen regni Anglicani jugis insuper et inevitabilis effusio nos mirabiliter depauperat et angustat. Caristia etiam divites et pauperes in partibus nostris ægra et pergrandi egestate perculit et contrivit; nec a subditis vel aliis propter hoc nimirum reperimus relevamen. Ecce, igitur, quæ solutionem nostram, quod nos tædet, novit Omnipotens, in nostram erubescentiam et dedecus quod timemus adeo distulerint; sed si onus istius solutionis in capitulum nostrum Ebor. fuisset unanimiter translatum, prout bono zelo et optima fide ad securitatem et commoditatem vestri alias sperabamus, Deo et utrique nostrum modo forsitan complaceret. Et, nisi spes hujusmodi hactenus subfuisset, aliud saltem in parte et pro posse dominationi vestræ fecissemus quicquid nobis incommodi contigisset. Verum, ne ipsa solutio saltem in toto ulterius tardaretur, in nundinis Sancti Botulfi ducentas marcas ad opus vestrum fecimus numerari, quæ nobis, non sine tædio, sed, laudetur Altissimus, gratius obvenerunt. Speramus etiam, domine, confidentissime sub curiali et pia compassione vestra in residuo, prout Deus benignitati vestræ inspiraverit, velut vester devotissimus, respirare; et eo, si placet, facilius quo consideratis sumptibus quos in reparatione domorum archiepiscopatus et sustentatione jurium ipsius fecimus et quotidianis vicibus impendimus, paucam et exilem summam nostris usibus applicamus. Utinam, domine reverende, vota et præcepta vestra possemus adeo tamque prosperis effectibus adimplere, sicut id hilari corde firmiter affectamus. Conservet vos et ecclesiæ et populo Suo Deus per tempora diuturna. Data London., ij. kalendas Augusti, anno gratiæ M^oCC^{mo}LXX^o. secundo.

Excellentissimo et præcordiali domino suo, E. Dei gratia regi Angliæ, domino Hybernæ et duci Aquitanæ, suus devotissimus sacerdos, W., eadem gratia, etc., salutem et sollicitam responsionum instantiam. Erga [Deum] preces amantissimæ dominationis vestræ Sanctissimo in Christo patri ac reverendo N., Dei providentia summo pontifici, suus humilis servulus et sacerdos W., permissione Ejusdem, Eboracensis curæ custos et minister, Angliæ primas, cum recommendatione devota et subjectione omnimoda, devotissima pedum oscula beatorum. Pater sanctissime, in hac recenti novitate mea vos clamoribus vel querelis circumstrepere pertimesco, verumtamen loqui vestrae sollicitudini et injurias Dei minime verecundor denudare, cum vis et vehementia vilis violentiæ mihi factæ, immo Deo et vobis, si placet, cujus servulum et creaturam me penitus recognosco, vobis conqueri acrius et acerbius me compellat; unde, inter pressuras et angustias quæ me conterunt, ad dulcedinem mitis misericordiæ vestrae clamo et confugio confidenter. Ecce, reverendissime pater, cum credidissem nuper in reditu meo ad partes Anglicanas de vestrae sanctitatis literis domino . . Cantuariensi sub bulla transmissis quietem et tranquillitatem super delatione consueta crucis meæ per Angliam fiducialius reportare, mihi et meis, post earumdem præsentationem dicto domino . . Cantuariensi factam, sævius solito et durius contigebat. Erecta enim in medio mari Angliæ cruce, signaculo primatiæ meæ, sicut semper fieri consuevit, et quiete per Cantuariensem diœcesin bajulata, demum magister Adam de Hales, officialis domini Cantuariensis, cum Sathanæ suisque satellitibus et complicitibus sibi adhærentibus, in familiam et crucem meam, velut effrons et furiosus, irruit violenter, ipsam crucem in partes perperam confringendo; sed aliam, benedictus Altissimus! ibidem mox allatam erigi feceram et deferri. Idemque officialis dictam familiam meam conviciis turpissime et luctuosius laceravit, dominum suum, videlicet Cantuariensem, in auctorem hujus rei, quin potius reatus, frequentius asserendo, et seipsum hujusmodi velle violentiam coram hominibus auctorari. Nec his impropriis et probrosis insultibus tunc contentus, in ingressu meo London., cum immensa multitudine armatorum mihi et meis acerbiores insultum cum fustibus, securibus, gladiis et variis armorum generibus, ad ingens scandalum mei et meorum, die postera properavit. Sed, per auxilium amicorum, qui mihi comitivam faciebant, et eandem evasi commina-tam duritiam, Deo duce; et ad regem pro temporalibus, quæ tenere debeo de eodem, veni, benedictus Altissimus! post insultus. Præterea, pater sanctissime, dominus Cantuariensis, per officialem et ministros suos, ubique in transitu meo consueto per provinciam Cantuariensem pro negotiis ecclesiæ Ebor., loca, receptacula, et victualia mihi et meis, ac si essemus hæretici vel præcisi sub pœna excommunicationis, non ferendæ sed latæ, aufert et immanissime interdicit; et totam patriam, ubi incedo, vel moram facio, supponit ecclesiastico interdicto, prout, si placet, transcriptum præsentibus interclusum dominationi vestræ in parte manifestius declarabit; adeo quod in ecclesia Dei gravius scissura et divisio generatur, et quod tædet me venire sub tot strepitibus et angustiis sic depressum; maxime cum præteritis et antiquis molestiis succedant, prohdolor! graviora. Placeat igitur piæ compassioni et paternitati vestræ rigorem dicti domini Cantuariensis aliqua correctionis lima, vel ordinationis via moderari; alioquin ecclesia Angliæ sub capitibus et primatibus dissidentibus sic concussa, cito, sicut veretur, lamentabiliter dividetur; quia plerique filii diaboli et divisionis malignæ concussioni et dissidentiae hujusmodi gratulantur intime et congaudent. Ut igitur in possessione juris crucis deferendæ per totam Angliam, quam prædecessores mei usi fuerant et Decretalis epistola commemorat, per pietatis vestræ suffragium defendar, provolutis genibus, cum intimis gemitibus intime supplico et attente, et super jure defendi me et capitulum vestræ ordinationi vel aliorum quos ad honorem Dei et sanctæ suæ ecclesiæ adhuc duxeritis deputandos; si ad hoc partem adversam velitis inducere, gratanter submitteremus, pro litium amfractibus amputandis et caritate mutua confovenda, honore nostræ Eboracensis ecclesiæ, si placuerit, conservato. Pater sanctissime, timor adversantium me nequaquam compulit ad scribendum, sed zelus quietis et concordiæ, ac totius regni commodum mihi fervorem avidum supplicandi merito ministravit. Absit etenim, pater reverende, ut crucis cruciamine ecclesia Angliæ diutius lugeat vel languescat, velitque vestra attendere sancta paternitas me præmissa eo vobis scripsisse affectu, ut suo zelo Salvatoris pacem, dum vixero, plebi provinciali præparare et procurare. Martinus episcopus, etc., dilectis filiis . . . Priori Fratrum Prædicatorum London., ac decano et archidiacono Leycestre in ecclesia Lincoln., salutem et Apostolicam benedictionem. Significavit nobis venera-bilis frater noster archiepiscopus Ebor. quod cum ipse ad villam de Beverlaco, Ebor. diocesis, temporaliter et spiritualiter sibi subjectam, accederet, ut in ecclesia ipsius villæ, prout officii sui debitum exigit, populo suæ curæ commisso proponeret verbum Dei, Rogerus de Tykeshull et Ricardus Sabine, clerici, Robertus Ingel-berti, Ricardus Inglays, laici, ac universitas ejusdem villæ, vesano ducti spiritu, multiplicatis tumultibus et conclamationibus, laxato conviciorum fræno, in dictum archiepiscopum, patrem et pastorem eorum, in publico conspectu, ut est moris, ad prædicandum paratum, escandere cœperunt effrontes, adeo quod, licet idem archiepiscopus omnes et singulos prædictos per frequentes monitiones pio sollicitare niteretur affectu, ut ab insolentiis hujusmodi conquiescerent et etiam resilirent; quia tamen iidem impetuosius quod horribiliter inchoarunt, tanquam aspides surdæ obturantes aures suas, maligno continuato processu in Dei et ipsius archiepiscopi vituperium non modicum et contemptum, in tantum pertinaciter persistere præsumpserunt quod idem archiepiscopus in ecclesia ipsa suæ prædicationis officium prosequi ac exequi non valuit, immo potius illud deserere est coactus; propter quod memoratus archiepiscopus, quia clerici et laici ac universitas prædicta super hoc moniti diligenter satisfacere contumaciter denegarunt, cum nihil rationabile proponerent quare hoc facere non deberent, et id esset ita notorium quod nulla poterat tergiversatione celari, in clericos et laicos prædictos, auctoritate ordinaria, excommunicationis, et in villam ipsam interdicti sententias promulgavit: quare dictus archiepiscopus nobis humiliter supplicavit ut hujusmodi sententias robur faceremus firmitatis debitum obtinere. Quocirca discretionis vestræ per Apostolica scripta mandamus quatenus sententias ipsas, sicut rationabiliter sunt prolatae, facias auctoritate nostra usque ad satisfactionem condignam, appellatione remota, inviolabiliter observari. Quod si non omnes his exequendis potueritis interesse, duo vestrum ea nihilominus exequantur. Data apud Urbem Veterem, viij. idus Maii, pontificatus nostri anno secundo.

A GENERAL LETTER OF INDULGENCE FROM JOHN, ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY, FOR THE SOUL OF DAME MATILDA LONGSPÈ.

(Reg. archiep. Wickwaine, 57-8. Ex orig.)

1282 ? We grant an indulgence of fifteen days to those who pray for her soul. She died recently on the borders of Wales.

Frater J., permissione Divina Cantuariensis ecclesiæ minister humilis, totius Angliæ primas, universis ejusdem ecclesiæ filiis pacem illam et benedictionis gratiam quam Christus contulit, crucis experiens maledictum. Inter miserationes Regis pacifici hæc est una præcipua, quod in ira flecti dignatur piæ petitionis instantia; et, ne desperationis subterfugium quisquam infeliciter adeat, astiturum se spondet orantibus, et desideriorum exauditorum gemitus, qui de fornace prodeunt caritatis. Hæc est quæ cœlos penetrat et inferos spoliât, vivorum et defunctorum refugium singulare. Nobis igitur salubre esse credimus, si exemplis et monitis vos omnes et singulos invitemus ad orandum pro illa ad quorum relevationem misericordiæ mater instat, et cogit debitum officium pastorale, quum patres thesaurizare filiis obligat lex Divina. Inter cæteros autem qui nostræ sollicitudinis oculos in se trahunt, excitat nos specialiter et inclinât necessitas nobilis mulieris, dominæ Matildis Lungespeye,¹ quæ, nobis existentibus in Walliæ finibus, in propinquo nobis loco posita, Deo devota, ut de dignis didicimus indiciis, mortalis auræ inquietudinem, successu, ut speramus, laudabili commutavit. Verum, quia dubii sunt illius decedentis religionis eventus, rogamus universos ecclesiæ nostræ subjectos, ut omnes sibi obnoxios auctoritatis culmine vel fœdere caritatis in capitulis vel collegiis,

A DRAFT OF SOME ARTICULI CLERI¹ PROPOSED BEFORE THE KING IN PARLIAMENT, WITH HIS ANSWERS.

(Reg. archiep. Wickwaine, 53 b.)

I. Ad cautelam prohibitio impetratur, non expresso nomine impetrantis, sub ea forma.

Ex relatu plurium intelleximus, etc., quæ judici et parti dirigitur, et intitulatur in cauda literæ ex parte regis, porrigiturque per aliquem ignotum laicum; et si judex procedat ulterius, vel pars prosequatur, sequitur attachiatio, nec potest judex coram justitiariis uti jure communi, scilicet de lege facienda cum manu tertia, si neget se contra prohibitionem venisse, sed dicunt justitiiarii, Rex est pars. Et tunc, sive velit sive nolit judex vel pars, ad inquisitionem procedent.

(Statutes of the Realm, i. 51), which is mentioned in the 20th Article. In the beginning of 1285 Wickwaine left England; and in the same year several of the grievances complained of in these "Articuli" were redressed in some important Statutes made at Westminster. (Statutes of the Realm, i. 71 et seqq.)

Ad primum articulum taliter respondetur, quod deinceps impetrantes talia brevia sine justa ratione puniantur arbitrio regis seu justitiariorum suorum. Et si fuerint pauperes, puniantur in corpore, ita ut in carcerem detrudantur.

II. Item ad cautelam sub eadem forma impetrant laici in genere super decimis, obventionibus, oblationibus, mortuariis, redemptionibus pœnitentiarum, violenta manuum injectione in clericum vel conversum, et in causa diffamationis, in quibus agitur ad pœnam canonicam imponendam.

Ad secundum articulum respondetur, quod si expriment veritatem non habeant breve a cancellario, et si breve obtineant in communi forma quod est de catallis, cum hoc compertum fuerit, puniantur graviter, ut supra.

III. Item cum executores alicujus testamenti agant contra testamenti debitores, ut ex eorum debitis compleant voluntatem ipsius, etiam si fidei commissa respiciant vel legata, proponitur prohibitio contra eos.

Ad tertium nondum est responsum finaliter: dicebatur tamen quod non debuit esse melioris conditionis executor in præjudicium debitoris quam fuit testator: quia si debitor obligasset se foro sæculari vel obligatione conventus esset in eodem, posset defendere per leges illius curiæ quæ sunt aliæ quam in foro ecclesiæ, in quo forte probaretur contra eum per duos testes minus idoneos: unde fiebat ab aliquibus ista quæstio, quid fieret si se obligasset foro ecclesiæ per fidei dationem forsitan vel per sacramentum?

IV. Item ubi in civitate, burgo, domus, molendina, redditus, seu talia ex consuetudine spirituali legantur, si coram iudice ecclesiastico super his quæstio moveatur, prohibitio regis exhibetur.

Ad quartum respondetur sic, quod consuetudo est in plerisque civitatibus et burgis quod una domus potest legari in testamento et alia vicina non, quia est de baronia, et illa non est legabilis, ut utamur verbis suis, vel quia hodie potest esse legabilis et cras non, quia forte venditur, et emptor ejusdem possessionis potest legare eam; sed si filius ejus eam habuerit per successionem, non est legabilis; unde ista cognitio, si legata fuerit, bene pertinet ad ecclesiam. Sed illa, an legari possit, ad eam pertinere non potest, propter varietatem supradictam, unde in civitate London. ex consuetudine probatur testamentum coram majore; ita ut, facta inquisitione coram eo si terra talis sit quæ legari possit, prolato testamento ponit legatarium in possessionem.

V. Item si aliquis in fundo de novo erexerit molendinum, et postea a rectore loci exigatur decima de eodem, exhibetur regis prohibitio sub hac forma: “Quia “ de molendino tali hactenus decimæ non fuerint solutæ, prohibemus, etc., et sententiam excommunicationis, si quam hac occasione promulgaveritis, revocetis omnino.”

Ad quintum respondetur sic, quod talia brevia non fiunt nec fieri debent. Et si tale aliquod breve impetratum fuerit ostendatur.

VI. Sæculares potestates compellunt personas ecclesiasticas eorum mancipia libere tenentes eorum solvere pedagia, tolmeta, muragia, contra libertates ecclesiæ et jura scripta super hoc.

Ad sextum respondetur sic, quod clerici debent esse immunes ab hujusmodi: sed si tenentes liberi, vel eorum servi, contra cartas libertatum suarum in talibus sint gravati, conquerantur, et fiet eis justitia cum exhibuerint cartas suas.

VII. Item testamenta laicorum defunctorum liberorum et aliorum qui servilis conditionis existant, per dominos feodorum impediuntur, nec permittunt ordinarios locorum promovere, observare, seu facere ob . . .
salvis dominis suis debitis et consuetis.

Ad septimum respondetur sic, quod faciant quod suum est quando impediuntur laici liberi circa testa-menta sive clerici. Sed si servus fuerit per dominum suum impeditus, qui potest si voluerit sibi omnia bona auferre dum vivit sine injuria, permitti oportet. Si tamen permittat dominus servum suum condere testamentum, valeat et fiat voluntas testatoris, et tale testamentum post mortem servi non debet aliquatenus impediri.

VIII. Si aliqua causa vel negotium, cujus cognitio spectat ad forum ecclesiasticum, coram ecclesiastico judice fuerit sententialiter terminata, et transierit in rem judicatam, nec per appellationem fuerit suspensa, si postmodum coram judice sæculari super eadem re inter easdem personas quæstio moveatur, et probetur per testes vel instrumenta, talis exceptio in foro sæculari non admittitur.

Ad octavum respondetur sic, quod illud quod terminatum est in uno foro non debet in alio innovari, immo potest excipi, et est exceptio admittenda.¹

IX. Item litera regis ordinariis dirigitur qui aliquos suos subditos excommunicationis vinculo innodarunt
quod eos absolvant infra certum diem, alioquin quod compareant responsuri quare eos excommunicarent.

Ad nonum respondetur sic, quod tale breve non manavit a curia quod sciatur, nec debet exire; si tamen aliquis tale acceperit, ostendatur.

in foro ecclesiæ admittitur in foro | regis in Anglia. (In margine.)

X. Item barones de scaccario domini regis vindicantes sibi ex privilegio quod non debeant extra illum locum cuiquam conquerenti respondere, extendunt illud privilegium ad clericos commorantes ibidem vocatos ad ordines seu ad residentiam, et diocesanis inhihent ne aliquo modo aliquave ex causa, dum sunt in scaccario domini regis, trahantur ad iudicium aliquo modo.

Ad decimum respondetur sic, quod rex habet privilegium papæ quod sui clerici non cogantur ad residentiam, dum steterint in obsequio suo, et necesse est quod serviatur rex tam a clericis quam a laicis, et hoc expedit rei-publicæ tam cleri quam populi. Vult tamen rex quod clerici sui sint obedientes et intendentes suis prælatis, sicut cæteri. Et si propter correctiones vocentur coram ordinariis suis, quia forte deliquerint, bene permittit rex quod canonice puniantur.

XI. Item clerici clericis vel laicis aliqua debita debentes coram justitiariis in banco vel baronibus de scaccario eadem recognoscunt, certum diem solutionis admittentes ibidem; ad quem si non solverint mandatur episcopis per justitiosos seu barones quod de bonis eorum tantum levare faciant, et ad certum diem per proprium nuntium eis mitti; quod si non fecerint, impediti quamquam ratione, mandatur literatorie vicecomiti quod distringat talem episcopum per terras et catalla: ita quod nec ipse nec aliquis per ipsum manus apponat ad ea, et etiam quod corpus habeat ad certum diem coram eis ad respondendum quare huiusmodi pecuniam non levaverint, et audituri iudicium super pluribus defaultis. Et si episcopus ad diem eundem significaverit literatorie quod sequestravit bona huiusmodi clericorum, et sub arcto sequestro tenet quousque satisfecerint, quodque eos ulterius coercere non potest, nihilominus breve porrigitur in forma præscripta; eodem modo proceditur in brevi quando scribitur episcopo Venire facias.

Ad undecimum respondetur sic, quod districtiones non debent fieri in isto casu nisi primo monito episcopo per simplicem literam quod de bonis talibus levare faciat et talem faciat venire; et postea per aliud breve et tertio. Ita quod demum quarta vice sit legitima districtio; et, si aliter factum fuerit, contra consuetudinem est, et non placet regi.

XII. Item ministri regis, ut dicitur, et alii ingrediuntur feodum ecclesiæ ad districtiones faciendas, et aliquando capiunt animalia rectorum in via regia quando non habent nisi terram pertinentem ad ecclesiam.

Ad duodecimum respondetur sic, quod dos ecclesiæ libera debet esse ubicumque; ea tamen quæ de novo sunt acquisita et ex dono quorundam rectorum ecclesiis adjuncta, non sic.

XIII. Item vacantibus archiepiscopatibus, episcopatibus, abbatiis, prioratibus, illi qui per dominum regem ad eorum custodiam deputantur, non solum temporalia sed etiam beneficia ecclesiastica appropriata eisdem, cum omnibus decimis et oblationibus, occupant, cum hæc ad personam laicam non poterint pertinere.

Ad tertium decimum respondetur sic, quod quælibet provincia habet suam consuetudinem, unde accidit quod in Scotia episcopi non testantur, sed rex occupat omnia bona sua; et in partibus Franciæ accidit in ecclesia Lemovicensi quod rex et regina et plures alii fecerunt oblationes ad corpus beati Leonardi et ad altare ejusdem ecclesiæ. Et quia episcopatus sint in manu regis per vacationem, in præsentia regis venerunt ballivi regis Franciæ, et occuparunt oblationes ad opus regis. Item Dunelmensis episcopus, quidam Walterus de Kyrkham, vindicavit fructus ecclesiarum Karliolensis episcopi in sua diocesi, vacante sede Karliolensi; et tandem, datis mille marcis, obtinuit cartam regis pro se et successoribus suis pro habendis fructibus illis. Et episcopus qui nunc est, in ultima vacatione Karliolensis ecclesiæ, impeditus propter conscientiam regis, venit ad curiam exhibens cartam suam; unde dicit rex quod ex consuetudine approbata recipit fructus tales.

XIV. Item si quis clericus in obsequio domini regis per aliquod tempus steterit et ad ratiocinia non astrictus, omnia bona ipsius, tam spiritualia quam alia, per loci vicecomitem sequestrantur; ita quod executores ejus nullam possunt habere administrationem de bonis prædictis.

Ad quartum-decimum respondetur sic, quod non omnis clerici bona per vicecomitem sequestrantur, sed illius tantum qui regi tenetur ad compotum vel ad certum debitum. Et si aliter quandoque fiat non placet regi, immo vult quod executores aliorum administrationem habeant liberam de bonis ejus.

XV. Item clerici incarcerati ex quacumque causa, civili vel criminali, sive delicto, non liberantur ordinariis, nisi primo per laicos, prolato judicio contra eos.

Ad quintum-decimum articulum respondetur sic. Rex deliberabit.

XVI. Item bedelli et servientes regis capiunt et abducunt naves, bigas et equos clericorum et aliarum ecclesiasticarum personarum ad res suas transvehendas, vel alias deducendas.

Ad sextum-decimum respondetur sic. Non placet regi quod ita fiat, quia hoc est contra Magnam Cartam, et contra statutum suum; unde tales intendit rex punire, audita querela, et permittit quod prælati tales puniant suo modo.

XVII. Item vicecomites aliquando negligunt capere excommunicatos, prece vel pretio, amore vel favore corrupti, et sic per negligentiam ipsorum læditur nervus ecclesiasticæ disciplinæ.

Ad septimum decimum articulum respondetur sic, quod vicecomites, non solum in hoc, sed etiam in multis et fere in omnibus, etiam in præceptis regis specialiter injunctis sibi, nedum pigre sed temere exequuntur quod mandatur: unde nuper accidit quod mandabatur vicecomiti cuidam quod decem et octo homines venire faceret coram rege, personaliter nominatos, pro quodam flagitio manifesto; ac ipse, mutatis personis, retento tamen numero personarum, duos tantum inter cæteros juxta mandatum nominatos venire fecit, quod non intendit rex relinquere impunitum, unde non mirentur prælati de factis vel negligentis vicecomitum; et rex cum querelas hujusmodi audierit prælatorum, comperta veritate, proponit vicecomites corripere, et, ut tenetur, castigare.

XVIII. Item quandoque aliqui confugientes ad ecclesiam abjurant terram secundum regni consuetudinem, et persequuntur laici eos vel inimici eorum, et a publica strata extrahuntur atque suspenduntur, vel statim decapitantur; et, dum sunt in ecclesia, per armatos custodiuntur infra cœmeterium, et quandoque infra ecclesiam ita arcte quod non possunt exire locum sacrum, causa superflui ponderis deponendi; nec permittitur eis victui necessaria ministrari.

Ad octavum et decimum respondetur sic, quod qui tales taliter interficiunt, violenter de publica strata expellentes, hoc faciunt contra pacem regis, unde puniendi sunt si de hoc convincantur tanquam homicidæ; quia illi fuerint in pace regis juxta consuetudinem regni qui taliter sunt occisi, nec placet regi quod ita arcte custodiantur in ecclesia confugientes ad eam, quin victualia habent competentia, et exeant, dum tamen sub custodia, pro necessitate sua: et necesse est quod hoc fiat per laicos in cœmeterio et ecclesia pro pace conservanda et malicia maxima confugientium quorundam ad ecclesiam ; si tamen prælati sine laicis eorum velint in se suscipere custodiam, placet regi.

XIX. Item coguntur clerici in actionibus personalibus quæ ex delictis vel contractibus nascuntur in foro sæculari laicis respondere.

Ad nonum et decimum nondum respondetur, sed rex deliberabit.

XX. Petimus etiam de novo statuto per vos edito, domine rex illustris, super terris ad manum-mortuam de cætero proventuris, ut aliqua emendentur, prout inferius annotatur.

Ad vicesimum, similiter, rex deliberabit.

Item ubi ponitur Nullus religiosus, etc., ut ibi suppleatur De sufficienter dotatis pariter et ditatis.

Item ubi dicitur Nullas terras, ibi oportet temperamentum apponere, Exceptis propriis feodis religiosorum et prælatorum, propter aliud statutum, quo cavetur ut nullus feodum alterius intret, etc.

Item ubi dicitur Manum-mortuam, ibi oportet suppleri, Scilicet prædictorum religiosorum, ut scilicet in isto numero non computentur manus prælatorum, vel ecclesiarum sæcularium, vel religiosorum pauperum.

Item quod sequitur, Quoquo modo, hic oportet excipi Eschaetam, quocumque modo pervenerit.

Item quod sequitur infra Venire præsumpserit oportet intelligi, vel suppleri, Adjectis moderaminibus præfatis.

Item quod sequitur Rex, etc., Terras et tenementa capiat ad manum suam, hic oportet supplere De terris et feodis ubi domini capitales mediati et immediati sunt laici. De terris prælatorum commode non posset intelligi.

Suo suus salutem, gratiam et benedictionem. Quoniam in recessu nostro apud Wixebrigg dixistis quod cum fratre Hugone de Maincestre colloquium habituri nobis aliqua significaretis, dilectioni vestræ per experientiam multiplicem approbatæ notum facimus per præsentem quod vobis, sicut diximus viva voce, de illa cedula missa apud Schardeburgh occasione aliquorum falsorum nobis a Fratribus et Minoribus impositorum, quicquid cum honestate poterimus, dictante conscientia faciemus; verum quia, secundum quod nostis, ad observationem canonum in professione nostra sumus firmiter obligati, contra Constitutionem Generalem nihil ausi erimus attemptare. Et quia, argumento nostro ipso inaudito, nec etiam semiplene dicto respondere voluistis, ipsum argumentum vobis scribimus, ut super illo literatorie nobis satisfacere valeatis. Et est argumentum tale. Supponamus quod curati teneantur curare modo sic.

Quicumque tenetur curare, tenetur vultum pecoris sui cognoscere; sed vultum pecoris sui sufficienter cognoscere non potest nisi confessionem subditi audiendo: ergo, quicumque tenetur curare, tenetur confessionem sui subditi audire; et, ideo, credimus quod omnis utriusque sexus constitutio facta fuit. Sed vos dicitis quod qui confitentur Fratribus vestris et Minoribus non tenentur confiteri proprio sacerdoti; ergo proprius sacerdos non tenetur audire confessionem suam; sed, si non tenetur audire confessionem, non tenetur cognoscere vultum suum. Ergo ad destructionem consequentis non tenetur curare. Sed ex hypothesis in principio argumenti curare tenetur. Ergo tenetur curare et non tenetur curare; quæ sunt contradictorie opposita. Et, ut utamur verbis doctoris nostri venerabilis Augustini, primo libro de Trinitate, "Non pigebit me," inquit "sic ubi hæsito quærere, nec pudebit sic ubi erro discere. Quisquis ergo hæc audit vel legit, ubi pariter certus est, purgat mecum; ubi pariter hæsitat quærat mecum; ubi errorem suum cognoscit, redeat ad me; ubi mecum revocat me ad se, ita ingrediamur simul caritatis viam, tendentes ad Eum de Quo dictum est quærite Ps. cv. 4. faciem Ejus semper." Et quia in Constitutione Martini continentur hæc verba, "Volumus autem quod hi qui Fratribus confitebuntur, iidem parochialibus presbyteris confiteri semel in anno, prout generale concilium statuit, nihilominus teneantur; et quod Fratres eos diligenter et efficaciter secundum datam eis a Domino gratiam exhortentur," ac nos diximus in cedula quod secundum naturam privilegii sui ipsi Fratres sibi confitentibus injungant, seu eos moneant et inducant quod semel in anno confiteantur proprio sacerdoti, quatenus a privilegio discrepat dictum nostrum parati erimus, si vobis placeat, revocare. Bene valete. Data apud Wycomb, iiii. idus Decembris, pontificatus nostri anno octavo.

Sanctissimo in Christo patri et domino, domino Cœlestino, Divina providentia universalis ecclesiæ summo pontifici, suus servulus et sacerdos J., eadem permissione Ebor. archiepiscopus, Angliæ primas, cum recommendatione devota et subjectione omnimoda, humillima pedum oscula beatorum. Lætetur ecclesia, sancta mater, cœtus fidei catholicæ jubilando exultet, orbisque gaudeat universus dum tanta lucerna in vestra parochia, quod decus morum speculumque humilitatis existit, supremo exposita candelabro ut luceat, caput erigitur plebi Christi. Nec memor sit ecclesia luctus illius amplius quo nimirum lugebat vacationem diutinam summæ sedis, quin potius deposita veste lugubri ornet se splendida, et jocunda amplectatur facie sponsum novum. Psallens cum tripudio et applausu prior tristitia convertitur in gaudium, luctus in citharam, et abundat solatio quæ fuerat desolata. Hujus autem solatii Ebor. ecclesia, meæ parvitatibus commissa regimini, parte non caret præcipua; propter immediationem præsertim, quia sanctæ Romanæ ecclesiæ, cujus noscitur decorata patronis, nullo medio est subjecta. Inde est quod ad sanctitatis vestræ pedes pro statu ecclesiæ meæ, vestræ ancillæ, gressu confidentiori recurro, sperans a vestra clementia impetrare felicius quod ejus honori vestra decreverit emi-

AN ACCOUNT OF THE RESIGNATION OF CELESTINE V.

(Reg. Halton, 7 a b.)

Die Sanctæ Luciæ, mane, cardinalibus omnibus congregatis in consistorio, præter dominum Neapoleonem et præter dominum Petrum de Mediolano, qui fuerunt infirmi, et præter decanum Parisiensem, abbatem Cisterciensem, et Priorem de Caritate, qui nondum venerunt ad curiam, papa Cœlestinus venit in consistorium, sicut quando fuit consecratus, et sedit in cathedra, et dixit lingua materna in hæc verba vel similia:—

Dec. 13, 1294.
 A description of the scene, and the pope's words and acts.

“Fratres mei, vos me elegistis in papam, et ego bene “scio quam multa feci, aliqua bene, aliqua minus bene, “quæ volo revocare, quia nescio discernere quæ bene “facta sint et quæ non, sed successori meo relinquo, “ut super hoc faciat suæ beneplacitum voluntatis.”

Post ea traxit de sub manto quandam cedulam quam legit, inter alia continentem sic: "Ego Cœlestinus papa
 " Quintus, considerans me insufficientem ad onus istud,
 " tutus ratione inscientiæ, tum quia senex et impotens
 " corpore, tum quia vitæ contemplativæ, sicut consuevi,
 " volo vacare, quod in officio isto facere non possum,
 " resigno papatui et oneri et honori." Et statim ipsemet descendit de cathedra, et accepit coronam de capite suo, et posuit super terram; et postea mantum et annulum et omnia alia usque ad albam, cardinalibus omnibus mire existentibus stupefactis.

Et post hæc ipse solus iniit in cameram et induit habitum ordinis sui, et rediit solus in consistorium, et sedit super scabellum infimum cathedræ, et dixit eis cum lacrymis: "Fratres, videtis quod ego resigno; re-
 " signavi isti honori; rogo et adjuro vos per sanguinem
 " Jhesu et per matrem Suam ut cito provideatis ecclesiæ
 " et de bono homine qui sit utilis ecclesiæ, et " nitati, et Terræ Sanctæ;" et statim surrexit ut iret ad cameram. Cardinales vero ipsum secuti sunt cum lacrymis alta voce clamantes, plorantes, et rogarunt ut non recederet quousque ecclesiæ providissent; quod et facere promisit.

Election of Boniface VIII., and what he has done. Post hæc, die Jovis ante Natale Domini, cardinales fuerunt inclusi, et in vigilia Natalis Domini concorditer per viam scrutinii elegerunt dominum Benedictum, qui vocatur Bonefacius papa Octavus.

Die vero Sancti Johannis idem papa Bonefacius revocavit omnes vacaturas factas tempore Cœlestini et Nicholai prædecessorum suorum, et etiam per seipsum et per dominum Gerard de Perma in Francia. Suspendit etiam omnes episcopos ac alios qui habuerunt dignitates per papam Cœlestinum, sive consilio cardi-naliū sive non, factos ut consuevit in consistorio.
 Suspendit etiam totam familiam cameræ et capellanos, et vult ordinare de ea. Camerarium autem et vice-cancellarium fecit, sed nescitur quos, usque Romam.

Suspendit etiam omnes mercatores cameræ domini papæ, et restituit solum tres societates, scilicet Spinas, Moros, et Clarentos. Revocavit etiam omnes commissiones causarum factas quibuscumque per papam Cœlestinum, et suspendit omnes scriptores papæ, sargentos et correos, factos per Cœlestinum et Nicholaum prædecessores suos, et etiam notarios papæ; sed pro certo non scribitur nisi de domino Bartholomeo de Capua. Et ordinavit quod curia vadat Romam; et xvij. die Januarii venit Romam, et ordinavit quod xxij. die ejusdem mensis deberet ibidem coronari et sacrari, ante quod tempus nulla bulla per ipsum exivit a curia, quia statuit quod de cætero nulla dimid' bulla exeat a curia. Scripsit etiam regibus Franciæ, Angliæ,¹ Alemanniæ, Hispaniæ, et aliis magnatibus transmarinis, quod nullus contra alium faciat vel attemptet, et quod compareant coram ipso per procuratores sufficientes plenum habentes mandatum, quum super pacis reformatione vult ipse sane providere. Et nimis sollicitat festinare passagium Terræ Sanctæ; et, ut dicitur, in propria persona proponit ipse transfretare.

Causa una quare papa Cœlestinus resignavit est, ut dicitur, quia ipse comperiit quod quidam cardinales, non habentes conscientiam, decipiebant enim quotidie; et inventæ fuerunt plures literæ albæ sine scriptura bullatæ.

Sanctam Romanam ecclesiam, fundatam firmiter supra petram, Altissimus sic erexit, ut in ea mirabilem vos constitueret columnam virtutibus eminentem, quae cunctis ecclesiis, ne concussae cujusquam adversitatis impetu in praecipitii casum ruant, opportuno providet adjutorii fulcimento. Sane plenam vos credimus habere notitiam quae et qualis ecclesiae Gallicanae ac totius regni fuerit hucusque conditio, et qualiter ad ipsius regni impugnationem, dispendium et gravamen hostilis iniquitas diversis partibus exercuerit usquam huc suae malignitatis impulsus. Nos itaque, in hujusmodi freto tempestatis expositi, advertentes nobis non solum ecclesiarum et regni ac etiam personarum sic in januis instare pericula, quasi jam vibrare super capita propria gladios denudatos, vias exquirere cogimur atque modos quibus nobis adversus frementes insultus regali providentia, sine qua impossibile est negotia dirigī, defensionis opportunæ remedia præparentur. Reverendissimo in Christo patri domino B., Dei gratia Albanensi episcopo, sacrosanctæ Romanæ ecclesiæ cardinali, suus presbyter devotissimus, H., salutem, et quicquid poterit reverentiæ et honoris. Sicut humana creatura nil habet quod digne possit pro meritis suo rependere Creatori, sic profecto nec mea sufficit modicitas ad merendum apud paternitatis vestræ dulcedinem, qui negotium electionis meæ prospere direxit et dirigendo promoveri feliciter procuravit. Et, ecce! pater amantissime, vos expeditionis meæ præcipuum promotorem agnoscens, vobis quoddam munusculum confero, quod acceptari supplico, videlicet centum marcarum annuam pensionem, super qua cum sigillum proprium sub nomine archiepiscopi habuero, meas cum pecunia patentes literas vestræ paternitati transmittam. Cui pro vestro sacerdote sic ulterius interponere placeat partes suas, quod mihi de gratia summi pontificis munus consecrationis per patres aliquos, quibus ad hoc vices suas committere voluerit, in Anglia impendatur et pallium transmittatur, sed nescio quid fieri poterit de servitiis quæ petuntur.  Salutem. Quia videtur nobis quod per Albertinum expeditum est principium facti nostri, eo quod solus ipse de nostris cum domino papa de illo facto personaliter est locutus; et, ut asserit, si juxta consilium suum actum fuisset diu, est quod foret feliciter et finaliter expeditum; unde, si ante adventum suum ad vos non fueritis expediti, visum est nobis quod auxilio et consilio ipsius utamini, quatenus expedire videritis utilitati et commodo negotii memorati. Jam, ut audi-vimus, expeditum est negotium . . Dublinensis. Et verecundum est quod vos, qui potestatem habetis obligandi ecclesiam et omnia alia quæ secundum statum modernum aliququaliter requiruntur, inutiliter statis fixi; et ad expediendum vos, memetipsos et nos non movemini cum effectū, et a nobis quotidie consilium petitis qui in loco illo estis a quo radicaliter consilia recta manant. Cessate igitur, si placet, verbosas literas mittere, et consilia vacua petere, ac negotio quod geritis viriliter insistite, ut ad finalem effectum illud finaliter perducatis. Per mercatores autem, et non aliter, consueverunt omni tempore electorum negotia expediri; nec vobis deesse poterunt mercatores ex quo fuerit ecclesia obligata. Impetrate etiam quod dominus papa scribat alicui societati mercatorum in Anglia quod a nobis pecuniam recipiant quam mutuo collegimus ab amicis et sociis pro suo et sanctæ Romanæ ecclesiæ servitio faciendo, sicut, ut vobis scripsimus, supplicavimus ei. Nuper literas vestras die Lunæ proximo ante festum Decollationis Beati Johannis recepimus per manus Francisci, quod nullam causam quare esset mittendus realiter continebant. Ex natura autem negotii nobis videtur quod ex quo per cameram domini papæ solummodo principium emanavit, finem recipere debeat illa via. Non tamen excludimus alias si videritis expedire. Audivimus jam de novo quod quædam litera regia nobis dirigenda sub certo tenore pro Aymone de Carto, præposito Beverlacensi, ad excitationem et suggestionem dicti Aymonis concepta fuerat et formata. Clemens episcopus, servus servorum Dei, venerabili fratri, archiepiscopo Eboracensi, salutem et Apostolicam benedictionem. Quotidiana instantia, sollicitudo ecclesiarum omnium,¹ Romanum pontificem pastorem gregis Dominici, speculatorem datum super domum Israel, non immerito angit et stimulat de quorumlibet pravis actibus et detestandis excessibus corrigendis, et virtutum seminibus spargendis in populo Domini, ex quibus Omnipotenti Deo laus et gloria, subditis per salutaris exempli productionem salutis et bonorum occasio Divina ministretur. Verum aedificare non sufficit et plantare virtutes nisi errores et vitia disperdat et dissipet, quoniam virtutis ingressus egressus est vitiorum. Hæc sollicitudo siquidem cunctos tangit, ad universos extenditur, quoniam pastor et rector ac speculator universalis gregis Dominici constitutus præ-

In ipso namque verissime impletur verbum Propheticum pronuntiatum Divinitus de Illo, Cujus existit vicarius, Cui data est omnis potestas in cœlo et in terra, ut adorent Eum omnes reges terræ, et omnes gentes serviant Illi.¹ Erit pastor unus omnium. Nec mirum autem, utique non mirum, si de prælatorum excessibus circa curam gregis Dominici in partem sollicitudinis vocatorum, et qui deberent alios doctrina verbi et operis multipliciter informare, et per illicitos gestus temerarios et præsumptuosos deformant, ad delinquendum alliciunt, et, quantum in eis est, per mali exempli perniciem de via ad invium, de reverentia ad irreverentiam, de obedientia ad præsumptionem prave seducere moliuntur, materiam majoris zeli ad defensionem domus Domini, Divinæque legis et mandatorum, majorisque indignationis et iræ, quæ non sine peccato est, patenter assumit. Sane ut ob honorem Dei et status ecclesiastici reverentiam, præcipue prælatorum, de Roberto Glasguensi episcopo plurima, quæ non immerito nostrum turbaverunt auditum, in offensam Dei, in contemptum ecclesiæ, ac nervi ecclesiastici dissolutionem et turbationem non modicam sed gravissimam sibi circumpositæ regionis, per ipsum commissa enormia, non sine quadam conscientiæ violentia sub silentio transeamus. Quis dissimulare poterit ejus actus nefarios et detestandos, ac præsumptuosos excessus quibus sedi Apostolicæ specialiter reservata temerarie sibi nisus est ac nititur usurpare? Quis tuta conscientia sine offensa Dei tacere aut dissimulare valeret tantam præsumptionis arrogantiam, ut, quæ solus Romanus potest pontifex, inferior contra fas et licitum Divina et humana jura usurpet, et in contemptum Dei, nostrum et Romanæ ecclesiæ dedecus, inauditam exempli Solus perscrutatur et tractat quæ intra Sancta Sanctorum sunt, adeo ut, dum voce jubeat Moyses, ut si quis exterus ad perscrutandum et contractandum accesserit, moriatur: Glasguensis autem episcopus, Dei timore postposito, nostra et ecclesiæ reverentia vilipensa, sedi Apostolicæ reservata ac nobis, qui Divina providentia præsidemus in ipsa, sibi temerarie ac præsumptuose usurpat; continue, temerarie mala malis accumulans et excessus excessibus, jam super astra cœli conscendere nititur, ac super altitudinem nubium, et, detestandam ac damnatam de cœlo cadentis Luciferi superbiam imitatus, sedem suam in Aquilone ponere, et simul nititur esse (altior) altissimo, specialiter sedi Apostolicæ et Romano pontifici reservata continue, præsumptuose et temerarie usurpando. Nos itaque volentes, sicuti ex debito pastoralis tenemur officii, reformare tantæ præsumptionis audaciam, nec impunitam relinquere, nec impunitam coalescere sinere, sed ad viam reducere reverentiæ et obedientiæ debitæ; et per Apostolicæ correctionis limina tantæ præsumptionis et temeritatis audaciam extirpare; fraternitati tuæ per Apostolica scripta in virtute obedientiæ districte præcipiendo mandamus, quatenus, per te vel alium seu alios, præfatum episcopum ex parte nostra peremptorie citare procures, ut infra mensem post citationem tuam ad nos iter arripiens veniendi, infra xl. dierum spatium mensem ipsum immediate sequentium, a spiritualium et temporalium administratione suspensus, quem exnunc prout extunc a prædictis suspendimus, nostro se conspectui personaliter repræsentet, super præmissis et aliis pro meritis recepturus, ac factururus quæ justitia suadebit. A LETTER FROM ARCHBISHOP GREENFIELD TO

(Reg. archiep. Greenfield, i. 193 a.)

Serooby,

Sanctissimo in Christo patri et domino suo reverentissimo, domino Clementi, Divina providentia sacrosanctæ Romanæ et universalis ecclesiæ summo pontifici, sua creatura humilis et devota, Willelmus, Ejusdem permissione Ebor. archiepiscopus, Angliæ primas, cum reverentia et subiectione omnimodis devotissima pedum oscula beatorum. Sanctissimæ beatitudinis vestræ literas xvij. kalendas Julii, anno gratiæ millesimo ccc^{mo}. sexto, apud Lanum, per manus discreti viri magistri Petri de Lacu, canonici Claremontensis, juris civilis professoris, cum reverentia debita recepi humiliter, tenorem qui sequitur continentes. Clemens episcopus, etc.

Quarum auctoritate literarum, statim, in præsentia dicti magistri Petri, per nuntium meum juratum, propter magnam locorum distantiam, venerabilibus fratribus dominis Karlioli et Candidæ Casæ episcopis, suffraganeis meis, separatim per diversas literas meas ex certis causis, ac etiam dilectis filiis dominis Wilhelmo de Bevercotes, cancellario, et Johanni de Sandale, camerario Scotiæ, per alias meas literas conjunctim et divisim mandavi, auctoritate Apostolica firmiter injungendo, ut ipsi, sub certis pœnis literis meis insertis, dictum episcopum juxta traditam mihi formam citarent; meque de die receptionis literarum mearum prædictarum, et citationis factæ, ac forma ejusdem, infra certum eis per me statutum terminum per suas redderent patentes literas certiores; originalibus literis Apostolicis supradictis sub bulla, prout illas recepi, eisdem transmissis ad hujusmodi rei certitudinem pleniores. Verum quia dictus Glasguensis episcopus a diœcesibus prædictorum suffraganeorum meorum distabat, nuntius meus præfatus ad dictos Cancellarium et Camerarium accedens, eisdem memoratas eis directas literas præsentavit. Qui, illis cum debita devotione admissis, mihi concorditer rescripserunt quod priusquam dictæ ad eos literæ pervenissent, præfatus episcopus in castro de Coupre, in comitatu de Fif in Scotia, (quod ipse episcopus, et nonnulli alii capitales inimici domini mei regis Angliæ illustris cum eo, manu armata et hostili incursu super homines ejusdem domini regis castrum illud ex parte sua tenentes, ceperant, et sic captum tenuerant et defenderant, quousque, per supervenientem ex parte prædicti domini regis potentiam super dictum episcopum et alios secum intrusos castrum hujusmodi potenter postea recuperatum extiterat,) tanquam hostis et contra pacem domini regis veniens, captus fuit, et per potentiam regiam ibidem præmissam, velut hostis et hostiliter captus carcerali custodiæ mancipatur.¹ Asseruerunt etiam dicti Cancellarius et Camerarius Scotiæ quod, licet parati essent mandatis Apostolicis humiliter obedire, inconsulto tamen domino meo rege, præfato episcopo, sic in custodia regia esistenti, citationem aliquam facere non audebant. Super quo regiam consului majestatem, quæ mihi rescribere dignabatur, quod, rebus se habentibus, ut præfertur, non videbatur eidem fore necessarium seu expediens quod episcopo ad præsens fieret citatio memorato: nam ipse dominus rex, ut intellexi, et ex serie literarum suarum concepì, certos ad vestram præsentiam nuntios in proximo est missurus,¹ per quos vestræ beatitudini intimare proponit totam seriem rei gestæ, et in causa præmissa vestrum requirere consilium ac beneplacitum, et quid in hujusmodi negotio ulterius sit agendum, paratus in eo vestram facere voluntatem, et in omnibus quæ vestra sanctitas sibi duxerit demandanda. Vestræ igitur sanctitatis clementiæ humiliter supplico et devote, quatenus, consideratis præmissis, me vestrum humilem sacerdotem in executione mandati vestri prædicti habere dignemini favorabiliter excusatum; quem semper, annuente Domino, invenietis paratum ad vestra beneplacita et mandata. Cæterum, cum præmissis vestris literis, alias per præfatum magistrum Petrum beatitudinis vestræ literas recepi, in quibus vidi inter cætera contineri quod si præfatus Glasguensis episcopus, tanquam præsumptuosus et in profundum malorum descendens, mandatis Apostolicis obedire contemneret, extunc, ubicunque eum contingeret reperiri, etiamsi in loco ecclesiastico, et exempto auctoritate vestra, sine moræ dispendio eum capi facerem; invocato ad hoc, si opus foret, auxilio brachii sæcularis. Quarum executionem facere non oportuit, pro eo quod, ut præmittitur, antea captus et detentus fuerat episcopus memoratus.

¹ For communications between the king and the pope on this subject, see Fœdera, i. 986, 999.

Ad exaltationem universalis ecclesiæ, et pacis ejusdem per multos annos prosperos et longævus vestra valeat et vigeat sanctitudo!

In quorum omnium testimonium præsentis literas per Ricardum de Clifton, notarium publicum infra-scriptum, scribi et publicari feci, et sigilli mei appensione muniri. Acta et data apud Scroby, sub anno Domini ab incarnatione millesimo ccc^{mo}. sexto, indicatione quarta, quarto idus Julii, præsentibus magistro Willelmo de Estden, ac domino Roberto de Notingham, clericis, testibus, et aliis.

cum reverentia et honore. Onera et incommoda quædam, licet non omnia, quibus affligimur his diebus vestræ paternitati ex magna fiducia duximus intimanda, sperantes firmiter quod, nostro statui compatiētes, velitis nobis per viam alicujus relevaminis subvenire. Temporales namque proventus anni præsentis non habemus nisi emptionis titulo oneroso, in tantum quod pro eisdem proventibus verum pretium oportebat nos solvere cuidam nobili cui fuerant assignati. Et nihilominus de eisdem proventibus exacti solvimus decimam impositam per dominum nostrum papam, ac etiam tricesimam pro militia domini principis Walliæ. Facimus insuper servitium cum decem militibus in Scotia pro guerra domini nostri regis, quod est non mediocriter sumptuosum; præter sumptus quotidianos in quibus patriæ consuetudo excessum exigit nec debitum moderamen attendit. Et licet sic fuerimus in arcto positi, servitium tamen cameræ pro termino Nativitatis Dominicæ jam instantis, non solum cum difficultate verum etiam cum non modico detrimento quæsitum, ad sedem Apostolicam mittimus; exorantes attente quatenus nuntium nostrum dignemini celeriter et feliciter expedire, facientes ei tradi sufficientes literas liberationis seu quietantiæ de receptis. Cæterum, venerande pater, quia infallibiliter præsentimus servitium pro termino Nativitatis Beati Johannis Baptistæ nos non posse perquirere ullo modo, vobis compellimur supplicare ut eundem terminum saltem, usque ad festum Nativitatis Dominicæ proximo subsequens, impetretis modis omnibus prorogari; considerantes, si placet, quod nullum subsidium a domino nostro papa reportavimus, prout spes firma fuerat aliquo tempore nobis data, quamvis omnes prædecessores nostri subsidium competens in casu consimili, licet non in tanta necessitate positi, consueverint reportare. Quid autem in præmissis facere decreveritis, una cum voluntate vestra per omnia, nobis, si placet, dignemini rescribere per Sanctissimo in Christo patri ac domino reverendissimo, domino Clementi, Dei providentia sacrosanctæ Romanæ ac universalis ecclesiæ summo pontifici, sua creatura humilis et devota, Willelmus, Ejusdem permissione ecclesiæ Ebor. minister, Angliæ primas, salutem et pedum oscula beatorum. Dictat mihi ratio pium esse ea diligenter apud Dei in terris vicarium promovere ac prosequi, quæ ad Ipsius Dei laudem, honorem ecclesiæ Suæ, ac ædificationem fidelium respicere videbuntur. Quantis autem meritorum insigniis et virtutibus mirificis celebris memoriæ Robertus, olim ecclesiæ Lincoln.¹ episcopus, adhuc in hac peregrinatione positus claruerit, attestantur superstites, qui se ea a patribus recitant didicisse; et ab eis mandatum etiam recepisse quatenus ea posteris enarrarent, ut altera progenies ea nota teneret. Tantis quoque idem vir venerabilis post ipsius obitum miraculis manifestis floruit atque floret, ut in ipso et pro ipso, juxta veritatem Evangelicam, luculenter appareat Deum Patrem ad ædificationem ecclesiæ Suæ a longissimis retroactis temporibus etiam usque modo mirabiliter operari; quamobrem totius populi fama clamat dignum ac justum esse hunc Dei cultorem catalogo Sanctorum ascribi in ecclesia militante, qui creditur in ecclesia triumphante, quæ nec fallit nec fallitur, gloriosissime triumphare. Quocirca vestræ supplico sanctitati, quatenus, inter cæteras sollicitudines vestras, ad hujusmodi negotium, quod speratur respicere gloriam veri Dei, exaltationemque honoris ecclesiæ

Willelmus permissione Divina, etc., dilecto filio Officiali nostro Ebor. salutem, gratiam et benedictionem. Mors absque differentia, omni postposita reverentia, in omnes homines sæviens, dominum nostrum carissimum, dominum Edwardum illustrem regem Angliæ, ab hac luce subtraxit. Quem etsi credamus supernis civibus aggregatum, eaque consideratione habita ei omni luctu deposito congratulari merito debeamus, quippe cum ab hoc regno transitorio, pro cuius regimine juges ab adolescentia labores sustinuit et ærumnas, pro cuiusque defensione in hac vita positus sese mille mortibus exposuit, ad cœleste solum migravit feliciter et perenniter regnaturus. Quia tamen amodo in hac vita sumus ejus corporali præsentia et protectione tutissima carituri, non poterimus non dolere; quinimmo interiora nostra doloris gladius pertransivit, nimirum non solum damnum Angliæ, verum totius orbis plangimus importabile detrimentum, ut brevi stilo amplissimam profundum luctus materiam perstringamus. In agendis omnibus prosperiorem evenire speramus effectum cum in ipsorum ingressu pariter et progressu ad Illum, Qui omnium est dispositor atque rector, fideles Christi spe firma suum dirigunt intuitum, Ipsius præsidium devotis precibus postulando. Cum igitur serenissimus princeps dominus noster, dominus Edwardus Dei gratia rex Angliæ illustris, cum suo exercitu ad partes Scotiæ jam dirigat gressus suos pro tranquillitate et securitate regni sui, ad compescendum furiosum impetum Scottorum, et ipsorum præsumptuosam rabiem repellendum, qui, suæ salutis immemores, et clavium ecclesiæ contemptores, contra fidelitatis juramentum ab eisdem præstitum non modicas partes Marchiæ dicti regni hostiliter sunt ingressi, et, nedum castra, villas et fortalitia, tam in terra Scotiæ quam in Marchia prædictis, verum etiam ecclesias et alia loca sacra, non sine multorum innocentium, tam clerico-

Willelmus, etc., dilectis filiis . . . capitulo ecclesiæ nostræ Beverlacensis salutem, gratiam et benedictionem. Nuper ecclesiam nostram prædictam jure ordinario visitantes, inter alia comperimus quod dilectus filius, dominus Johannes de Dunyngton, canonicus ecclesiæ memoratæ, altare lapideum ad caput tumbæ Sancti Johannis, nostro ac vestro irrequæsito consensu, quasi proprio motu erexit, per cujus erectionem accessus ad tumbam prædictam, per ejusdem altaris erectionem, frequentius impeditur. Et nos ipsi, dicto die, tempore visitationis nostræ, ad accedendum more solito ad tumbam prædictam per ejusdem altaris erectionem

(Reg. Ric. Kellawe, episc. Dunelm. 148 a.)

nolmensis commissarius generalis, debitam obedientiam, cum omni reverentia, complacentia et honore. Manverba (reciting it).

Hujus igitur vestri auctoritate mandati ad ecclesiam parochialem de Hoghton personaliter accessi, ac per Rogerum filium Reginaldi de Bydik, Willelmum de Neubotel de eadem, Johannem Punder de Hetton, Willelmum filium Petri de Pencher, David Punder, Willelmum filium Alani de Hoghton, Stephanum Teddy, Johannem de Heryngton, Johannem Porter, et Robertum Suter, dominos Willelmum capellanum parochialem de Hoghton, Willelmum capellanum, procuratorem ejusdem, fidedignos, juratos in crastino receptionis præsentium, super præmissis inquisivi.

One John Sayer, at the coming of the Scots, got up to the top of the church tower, and, whilst descending, fell and was killed. The framework of a bell was polluted, nothing more.

Qui dicunt unanimiter quod dictus Johannes Sayer, parochianus ejusdem ecclesiæ, ad dictam ecclesiam propter adventum Scottorum fugiebat, ejusque campanile ascendebat ultra campanas in ejusdem summitate, ibique aliquantulum sedebat, ab eademque descendendo casualiter cecidit, sicque mortuus est absque violentia alicujus Scoti vel hominis alterius, sanguisque post casum super atrium alicujus campanilis cecidit, nec campanile vel ecclesia alio modo ejus sanguine polluitur, ut hi dicunt, ob quod presbyteris ejusdem consului ne hac occasione de cætero in eadem ecclesia se abstineant a Divinis. Et sic mandatum vestrum sum cum omni celeritate qua potui in omnibus executus. In cujus rei testimonium præsentem inquisitionem sigillis eorum prædictorum contestantium consignatam, meoque privato publice quo utor in officio inclusam, vestræ paternitati transmittito humiliter sicut decet. A SERIES OF ARTICULI CLERI PRESENTED TO EDWARD II.
IN PARLIAMENT, WITH HIS REPLIES.

(Reg. archiep. Melton, 514-15.)

Edwardus Dei gratia rex Angliæ, dominus Hiberniæ et dux Aquitaniæ, omnibus ad quos præsentis literæ pervenerint salutem. Sciatis quod cum dudum temporibus progenitorum nostrorum, quondam regum Angliæ, in diversis Parliamentis suis, et similiter postquam regni nostri gubernacula suscepimus, in Parliamentis nostris per prælatos et clerum regni nostri plures articuli, continentes gravamina aliqua ecclesiæ Anglicanæ et ipsis prælatis et clero illata, ut in eisdem asserebatur, porrecti fuissent, et cum instantia supplicatum ut inde apponeretur remedium opportunum; ac nuper in Par-

York,
Nov. 24, 1316.
After the king's accession divers articuli were presented to him.

Lately, in the parliament at Lincoln, the following articles were considered. The answers of the king and his council are given. Tithes, obventions, &c.

liamento nostro apud Lincoln, anno regni nostri nono, articulos subscriptos¹ et quasdam responsiones ad aliquos eorum prius factas coram Concilio nostro recitari, ac quasdam responsiones corrigi, et certis articulis subscriptis per nos et dictum Concilium nostrum fecimus responderi; quorum quidem articulorum et responsionum tenores subsequuntur in hunc modum.

“ In primis laici impetrant prohibitiones in genere “ super decimis, obventionibus, oblationibus, mortuariis, “ redemptionibus pœnitentiarum, violenta manuum in-“ jectio in clericum vel conversum, et in causis “ diffamationis in quibus agitur ad pœnam canonicam “ imponendam.

“ Rex ad istum articulum respondet quod in decimis, “ oblationibus, mortuariis, quando sub istis nominibus “ proponitur, prohibitioni regiae non est locus, etiam si “ propter detentionem istorum diutinam ad æstima-“ tionem eorundem pecuniariam veniatur: sed si clericus, “ vel religiosus decimas suas in horreo suo congregatas “ vel alibi existentes vendiderit alicui pro pecunia, si “ petatur pecunia coram iudice ecclesiastico, locum “ habet prohibitio, quia per venditionem res spirituales “ fiunt temporales, et transeunt decimæ in catalla.

“ Item si sit conventio de jure decimarum originem “ habens ex jure patronatus, et earundem decimarum “ quantitas ascendat ad quartam partem bonorum “ ecclesiæ, locum habet regia prohibitio, si hæc causa “ coram iudice ecclesiastico ventiletur.

“ Item si prælatus imponat pœnam pecuniariam “ alicui pro peccato et repetat illam, regia prohibitio “ locum habet; verumtamen si prælati imponant pœni“ tentias corporales, et sic puniti velint hujusmodi “ pœnitentias per pecuniam sponte redimere, non habet

 in the Register is “Casus in quibus | “ quibus non.”

“ locum regia prohibitio, si coram prælatis pecunia ab “ eis exigatur.

“ Insuper si aliquis violentas manus injecerit in “ clericum, pro violata pace debet emenda fieri coram “ rege, pro excommunicatione vero coram prælato ut “ imponatur poenitentia corporalis, quam si reus velit “ sponte per pecuniam redimere dandam prælato vel “ læso, nec in talibus regia prohibitio locum habet.

“ In diffamationibus etiam corrigant prælati supra“ dicto modo, regia prohibitionem non obstante.

“ Item si aliquis in fundo suo molendinum erexerit “ de novo, et postea a rectore loci exigatur decima de Tithes of “ eodem, exhibetur prohibitio regia sub hac forma. newly erected “ Quia de molendino tali hactenus decimæ non fue- mills.
 “ runt solutæ, prohibemus, etc.; et sententiam excom- “ municationis, si quam hac occasione promulgaveritis, “ revocetis omnino.”

“ Responsio. In tali nunquam exivit prohibitio de “ principis voluntate, qui et decrevit talem perpetuo “ non exire.

“ Item si aliqua causa vel negotium, cujus cognitio “ spectat ad forum ecclesiasticum, et coram ecclesiastico Collisions “ judice fuerit sententialiter terminata, et transierit in between “ rem judicatam, nec per appellationem fuerit suspensa, civil and “ et postmodum coram judice sæculari super eadem ecclesiasti-“ re inter easdem personas quæstio moveatur, et pro- cal courts.
 “ betur per testes vel instrumenta, talis exceptio in “ foro sæculari non admittitur.

“ Responsio. Quando eadem causa diversis ratio“ nibus coram judicibus ecclesiasticis et sæcularibus “ ventilatur, ut supra patet de injectione violenta “ manuum in clericum, dicunt quod, non obstante eccle“ siastico judicio, curia regis ipsum tractat negotium, “ ut sibi expedire videtur, ecclesiastico judicio non “ obstante.

Interference with excommunications.

“ Item litera regia ordinariis dirigitur qui aliquos
“ suos subditos excommunicationis vinculo innodarunt,
“ quod eos absolvant infra certum diem, alioquin quod
“ compareant responsuri quare eos excommunicaverunt.
“ Responsio. Rex decernit quod talis litera nunquam “ exire in posterum permittatur, nisi in casu in quo “ posset inveniri lædi per excommunicationem regiam “ libertatem.

Non-residence of clerks in the exchequer.

“ Item Barones de Scaccario regis vindicantes sibi
“ ex privilegio quod non debent extra illum locum “ conquerenti cuidam respondere, extendunt illud privi“ legium ad clericos commorantes ibidem, vocatos ad “ ordines seu ad residentiam, et diocesanis inhihent “ ne aliquo modo, aliquave causa, dum sunt in Scac“ cario et in servitio domini regis, trahant ad iudicium “ quoquomodo.

“ Responsio. Placet domino regi ut clerici suis in-“ tendentes obsequiis, si delinquant, per ordinarios, ut “ cæteri, corrigantur, sed tempore quo occupantur circa “ scaccarium ad residentiam in suis faciendam ecclesiis “ non tenentur. Hic additur sic de novo per Con- “ cilium domini regis. Rex et antecessores sui, a “ tempore cujus contrarii memoria non existit, usi “ sunt quod clerici suis immorantes obsequiis, dum “ obsequiis suis intenderint, ad residentiam in suis “ beneficiis faciendam minime compellantur, nec debet “ dici tendere in præjudicium ecclesiasticæ libertatis “ quod pro rege et re publica necessarium invenitur.

Unlawful
distrains.

“ Item ministri domini regis, ut vicecomites et alii, “ ingrediuntur feodum ecclesiæ ad districtiones faci“ endas, et aliquando capiunt animalia rectorum in via “ regia, quando non habent nisi terram pertinentem ad “ ecclesiam.

“ Responsio. Placet domino regi ne de cætero de“ strictiones fiant hujusmodi, nec in via regia, nec in “ feodis quibus olim ecclesiæ sunt dotatae; vult tamen “ districtiones fieri in possessionibus de novo a personis “ ecclesiasticis acquisitis.

“ Item quandocunque aliqui fugientes ad ecclesiam “ abjurant terram, secundum regni consuetudinem, et “ persequuntur laici eos vel inimici eorum, et a publica “ strata abstrahuntur, et suspenduntur vel statim Unlawful treatment of those who have taken sanctuary.
 “ decapitantur; et dum sunt in ecclesia custodiuntur “ per armatos infra cimiterium, et quandocunque infra “ ecclesiam, ita arcte quod non possunt exire locum “ sacrum causa superflui ponderis deponendi, nec per-“ mittitur eis necessaria victui ministrari.

“ Responsio. Qui terram abjurarunt, dum sunt in “ strata publica, sunt in pace domini regis, nec debent “ ab aliquo molestari; et, dum sunt in ecclesia, cus“ todes eorum non debent morari infra cimiterium, nisi “ necessitas vel evasionis periculum hoc requirat, nec “ arcentur confugi dum sunt in ecclesia quin possint “ habere vitæ necessaria et exire libere pro obsceno “ pondere deponendo. Placet etiam domino regi ut “ latrones appellatores, quandocunque voluerint, possint “ sacerdotibus sua facinora confiteri, sed caveant sacer“ dotes ne erronee hujusmodi appellatores informant.

“ Item petitur quod dominus rex et regni magnates “ non onerent domos religiosas vel ecclesiasticas per- Improper grant of “ sonas pro corrodiis, pensionibus, vel præhendingatio- corrodies, “ nibus faciendis in domibus religiosis et aliis locis pensions, “ ecclesiasticis, carectis et equis sibi mittentes, cum &c., by the king and his nobles.
 “ per hoc prædictæ domus depauperentur, cultusque “ Divinus in hac parte diminuatur, et propter hujus“ modi onera compelluntur sæpissime presbyteri, et “ alii ministri ecclesiastici Divinis officiis deputati, a “ locis recedere supradictis.

“ Responsio. Placet domino regi quod super con“ tentis in petitione de cætero indebite non onerentur.

“ Et si per magnates aut alias contra fiat, habeant “ inde remedium juxta formam statutorum tempore “ domini E. regis, patris regis nunc, editorum. Et “ fiat consimile remedium de corrodiis et pensionibus “ per coercionem exactis, de quibus non fit mentio in “ statutis.

Contempt of summons to appear before the ordinary.

“ Item si aliquis de tenura domini regis vocatus “ coram ordinariis extra parochiam in qua degunt, si “ propter suam manifestam contumaciam excommuni-“ centur, et post quadraginta dies pro eorum captione “ scribatur, prætendunt se privilegiatos, quod extra “ villam seu parochiam suam non debent vocari, et “ sic denegatur breve regium pro captione eorundem.
 “ Responsio. Nunquam fuit negatum, nec negabitur
 “ in futurum.

“ Item petitur quod personæ ecclesiasticæ quas domi“ nus rex ad beneficia præsentat ecclesiastica, si epi“ scopus eas non admittat, ut puta, propter defectum “ scientiæ, vel aliam causam rationabilem, non sub“ eant examinationem laicarum personarum in casibus “ antedictis, prout his temporibus attemptatur de “ facto, contra canonicas sanctiones, sed adeant judicem “ ecclesiasticum, ad quem de jure pertinet pro remedio, “ prout justum fuerit, consequendo.

“ Responsio. De idoneitate præsentatæ ad bene“ ficiū ecclesiasticum pertinet examinatio ad judicem “ ecclesiasticum, et ita est hactenus usitatum et fiet
 “ in futurum.

“ Item si vacet aliqua dignitas, ubi electio est facienda, “ petitur quod electores libere possint eligere, absque “ incussione timoris a quacunque potestate sæculari, et “ quod cessent preces et oppressiones in hac parte.

“ Responsio. Fiant libere juxta formam statutorum “ et ordinationum.

“ Item licet clericus coram sæculari iudice judicari “ non debeat, nec aliquid contra ipsum fieri, per quod “ ad periculum mortis vel mutilationem membri valeat “ perveniri, sæculares tamen iudices clericos ad eccle-“ siam confugientes, et reatus suos forte confitentes, “ faciunt abjurare regnum, et eorum abjuraciones Abuses connected with the trial of clerks before a secular tribunal.
 “ admittunt ex illa causa, quamquam eorum iudices “ super his non existant; sicque datur laicis indirecte “ potestas hujusmodi clericos trucidandi, si ipsos post “ hujusmodi abjuracionem in regno contigerit inveniri, “ super quo petunt prælati et clerus tale remedium “ adhiberi, ut immunitas ecclesiæ et ecclesiasticarum “ personarum conservetur illæsa.

“ Responsio. Clericus pro feloniam fugiens ad eccle-“ siam pro immunitate ecclesiastica obtinenda, si asserit “ se esse clericum, regnum non compellitur abjurare, “ sed, legi regni se reddens, gaudebit ecclesiastica liber“ tate, juxta laudabilem consuetudinem regni hactenus “ usitatam.

“ Item quamquam confessio coram illo qui non est “ iudex confitentis non teneat, nec sufficiat ad facien“ dum processum vel sententiam proferendam, quidam Improper use made of confessions of offending clerks.
 “ tamen sæculares iudices clericos, qui de foro suo in “ hac parte non existunt, reatus proprios et enormes, “ ut puta, furta, roberias et homicidia coram eis con“ fitentes, admittunt ad accusationem aliorum, quam “ ipsi communiter vocant appellum, ipsosque confitentes “ accusantes, seu appellum facientes, non liberant præ“ latis eorum post præmissa, quamquam super his “ fuerint sufficienter requisiti, licet coram eis per con-“ fessionem propriam judicari vel condemnari nequeant “ absque violatione ecclesiasticæ libertatis.

“ Responsio. Appellatori in forma debita, tanquam “ clerico per ordinarium petito, libertatis ecclesiasticæ “ beneficium non negatur.”

A BULL OF POPE JOHN XXII. RELATING TO THE SCOTTISH WAR.

(Reg. archiep. Melton, 495 b.)

Avignon,
May 1, 1317.
Speaks of the quarrel between Edward II. and Robert
de Brus,

Johannes episcopus, servus servorum Dei, ad firmam rei memoriam, vocatis nobis, licet insufficientibus meritis, ad Apostolatus officium, occurrit quasi confestim considerationis nostræ conspectui acerbis infesta molestiis periculosa dissensio, quæ inter carissimum in Christo filium nostrum, Edwardum, regem Angliæ illustrem, et dilectum filium, nobilem virum Robertum de Brus, gerentem se pro rege Scotiæ, jamdudum incentorem malorum, quoniam suscitavit amaras nobis suas cir-cumstantias, quas frequenter, dum nos minor status haberet, intra pectoris claustra revolverimus, repræsentans. Hinc etenim se offerebant et offerunt nostris obtutibus impedimentum proinde facile receptura pia Dei negotia, et præcipue Terræ Sanctæ desertæ ab incolis Christi-fidelibus ipsorumque destitutæ suffragiis, cui, catholicis principibus distractis ad bella civilia, consolator aliquis non assistit ex omnibus caris suis. Hinc se ingerebant et ingerunt animarum pericula, Christiani sanguinis non levis effusio, gravia rerum dispendia, et non solum ipsorum dissidentium suarumque gentium, sed et quamplurium aliorum in ipsorum convocatione periculosa turbatio pariter et damnosa. Vassallos insuper et subditos regis et gerentis prædictorum a juramento fidelitatis, quo eis vel eorum alteri tenentur astricti, quantum ad hujusmodi guerræ seu dissensionis articulum, cum in illicitis eis obedire non debeant, per idem tempus absolvimus. A GENERAL CERTIFICATE FROM ARCHBISHOP MELTON.

(Reg. archiep. Melton, 496 b.)

Universis Christi fidelibus ad quos præsentes literæ pervenerint Willelmus permissione Divina Ebor. archiepiscopus, Angliæ primas, salutem cum benedictione et gratia Salvatoris. Cum itaque status Willelmi de Midelton, exhibitoris præsentium, an videlicet de numero fuerit quondam Templariorum, necne, a nonnullis revocetur in dubium, sicut dicit; universitati vestræ præsentibus innotescat quod idem Willelmus, tempore infirmationis ordinis dictorum Templariorum, unus de ipsis et de ipsorum numero habitus fuerit et reputatus, et tanquam talis, prout fideli testimonio pro constanti recepimus, juxta ordinationem bonæ memoriæ domini Willelmi, immediati prædecessoris nostri, in monasterio abbatis et conventus de Rupe, ordinis Cisterciensis, nostræ diœcesios, ad morandum usque ad tempus fuerat collocatus, sic quoad omnes tunc confratres suos ejusdem diœcesios in aliis religiosis locis singulis deputatos extitit ordinatum. In quo quidem monasterio de Rupe laudabiliter conversando, prout dictorum abbatis et conventus testantur literæ, per triennium cum dimidio moram traxit.¹ In cujus rei testimonium has literas nostras sibi concedendas duximus, sigilli nostri munimine roboratas. Et licet circa fluctuum hujusmodi sedationem et flatuum, ac dicti status reparationem, sedis Apostolicæ sollicitudo non se subtraxerit, sed ipsorum regis et regni pressuras ex compassionis affectu frequenter ad memoriam revocans, et ad eas relevandas remediis excogitatis anhelans, dilectos filios nostros Gaucelinum tituli SS. Nam, pater sancte, ex pacis semine quod vestra pietas crebris suasionibus et epulis allectivis plantare studuit in hoc regno, sopita jam dissensionum turbine qua hactenus fluctuavit, Divina inspirante virtute, quæ ad hoc, ut verisimiliter creditur, cor vestrum accendit, virescere et pullulare bonum concordiaæ atque tanta identitas animorum, quod inter dominum nostrum regem et suos proceres hujus regni, progrediendi, infra mensem post instans festum Nativitatis Sancti Johannis Baptistæ, fortius et potentius quo poterunt, contra Scotos (quibus multa discrimina ac infortunia ipsorum demeritis et proterviis, quas Deus justus judex vicarii sui sententiis percelli voluit et censuris, voce populari ascripta, hactenus diversimode acciderunt), ex assensu unanimi est conductum; ex quo felix speratur exitus, Deo duce; et quod, excrescente devotione populi hujus regni, status Anglicanae ecclesiae extolletur, et nomen vestrum titulo audis perpetuæ merito ab Anglicis conscribetur. Verum, pater sanctissime et creator, licet ego, vestra creatura devota, ad curæ molem meo officio incumbentem salubriter supportandam ac utiliter dirigendam, multorum consiliis et adjutoriis egeam peritorum; doctores tamen et clerici hujus nationis et linguæ, multitudinem numerosam provisionum factarum per sedem Apostolicam de beneficiis et præbendis mei patronatus cernentes, in tantam desperationem inciderunt aliquam per me promotionem ex suis mihi impendendis laboribus consequendi, quod neminem ipsorum absque pecuniario censu et excessivo eis constituendo salario annuatim, meo possum consortio aggregare, quod nimirum cor meum diris torquet aculeis atque pungit: præsertim cum manerium meum de H[extildesham], in quo tertia pars mei archiepiscopatus consistit, primo, et postea aliud meum manerium de Ripon jam de novo destruantur per Scotos, præter alia incommoda quæ sustineo his diebus, quatenus J. de Nevile, præsentium portitor, ¹ The form has occurred before. See CXCIV.

They excuse themselves in the following letter.

Memorandum quod præfatæ Priorissa et Conventus se excusarunt, prout in litera his consuta plenius continetur.

They decline to receive them, as the nuns of Molsby are of a different order, and they are too poor themselves.

Venerabili in Christo patri et domino, domino Willelmo permissione Divina Ebor. archiepiscopo, Angliæ primati, suæ devotæ et humiles filiæ, Priorissa et Conventus de Munketon, ordinis Sancti Benedicti, obedientiam, reverentiam et honorem. Literas vestras super receptione duarum monialium de Molsby, ordinis Sancti Augustini, vj. idus Novembris anno gratiæ millesimo ccc^{mo}. vicesimo secundo, devotis animis recepimus et intelleximus auribus inclinatis; quibus humiliter parere prona sunt interiora vota, si fortunæ exteriores hoc quomodolibet tolerarent. Verum quia junctio religiosorum diversas regulas profitentium plus discrepantiam quam regularem consonantiam tribuere dinoscatur, et dictarum monialium regula Sancti Augustini, et nostra Sancti Benedicti regularibus observantiis et habitu sit distincta, vestram dominationem lacrymosis precibus humillime deprecamur, quatenus cum domus nostræ facultates ad nostrum moderatissimum victum non sufficiant, ex præmissis causis, non fictis sed notoria veritate fulcitis, super contentis in literis vestris habere dignemini favorabiliter excusatas. Ad regimen ecclesiæ Suæ et populi vos conservet Altissimus per tempora diuturna.

Et iterato eis scribebatur, prout sequitur.

The archbishop's reply, dated Nov. 17, 1322.

Willelmus, etc., dilectis filiabus Priorissæ et Conventui de Munketon salutem, gratiam et benedictionem. Literas vestras, nostris aliis literis vobis transmissis responsales, excusationes quasdam inter cætera continentes recepimus, videlicet, quod moniales, pro quarum mora ex causa urgente et necessaria inter vos ad tempus facienda vobis literas nostras nuper duximus dirigendas, adhuc nullatenus admisistis, propter professionis et re-gularum vestrarum et suarum discrepantiam, et facultatum domus vestræ exilitatem, quas pro excusationibus vestris nobis literatorie intimastis. Cæterum ipsa, de qua præmittitur, discrepantia nos non movet, nec vos movere debet, si debite hujusmodi negotii qualitatem inspexeritis circumquaque, cum vestras professionem et regulas cum dictis monialibus turbare, confundere, seu immiscere nullatenus intendamus, sed solum in suæ instantissimæ necessitatis articulo affectans eas inter vos ad tempus, ut convenit, immorari, Divinis obsequiis juxta suæ professionis regulares observantias secretius, seorsum, et per se, devotius suas operas, prout expedit, impensuras; ita quod pro tempore moræ suæ earum non cedat devotio vobis fastidio seu scandalo aliquantum. Præterea etsi vestræ facultates exuberantius more solito non abundant, eo mediocrius eas oportet, prout de cætero fieri poterit, procurari, præsertim cum inhumanum sit mulieres religiosas in sæculo dissolute nimium evagari, et ob defectum et penuriam manifestam se impudice, contra scita canonum, cœtibus virorum immiscere. Quocirca vos in Domino monemus, salubriter exhortantes, quatenus dominas Sabinam de Apelgarth et Margaretam de Newsom (loco aliarum duarum), dictæ domus de Molseby moniales, juxta formam illarum literarumstrarum vobis in hac parte prius directarum, admittere satagatis, ipsas ad tempus inter vos, ob reverentiam piæ matris Dei, et religionis vestræ, in caritatis affectibus debite pertractantes. Injunximus enim, ut oportuit, simile onus aliis sanctimonialium domibus religionis, quæ hostium nostrorum immania non senserunt discrimina, per nostram diœcesin ubilibet constitutis. Valete. Et hæc nullatenus omittatis; præmunientes eundem Johannem quod si periculum immineat seu detrimentum, ob sui defectum, munitioni seu victualibus memoratis, periculum inde proveniens, prout est justum, in suum caput retorquebitur universum. Quod si ipsum Johannem ad dictum officium faciendum inducere non poteritis quovis modo, vobis mandamus quatenus alium ad dictum officium faciendum, idoneum, sufficientem, sciolum, et potentem, nobis, quamecitius poteritis, nominetis; ut, si quicquid contingat, dicta victualia seu munitio non pereant, nec capiant detrimentum. diœcesios, salutem, gratiam et benedictionem. Quærentes in agro scolasticæ disciplinæ scientiæ margaritam non immerito quo possumus favore prosequimur, eaque libenter eis concedimus, per quæ, materia submota gravaminis, ipsorum status tranquillitas prosperetur. Hinc est quod vestris devotis precibus inclinati, personas vestras cum omnibus bonis ad vos communiter pertinentibus, quæ in præsentiarum rationabiliter possidetis, aut posthac justis modis, præstante Domino, poteritis adipisci, sub nostra protectione, quatenus possumus, suscipimus in futurum. Specialiter autem libertates et immunitates ab episcopis, regibus, magnatibus, ac aliis Christi fidelibus vobis rite concessis, sicut ea omnia juste et rationabiliter obtinetis, vobis, et per vos vestris successoribus, auctoritate præsentium confirmamus, et præsentis scripti patrocinio committimus. Ad hoc quia intelleximus, quod nonnulli, propriæ salutis immemores, delictis in Universitate vestra perpetratis, propter quæ suspensionis vel excommunicationis sententiis innodari meruerint, a vobis et a vestra jurisdictione recedunt, claves ecclesiæ temere contemnendo, ut dictæ sententiæ robur obtineant firmitatis, quotiens nos vel archidiaconi nostræ diœcesios super hoc a vobis legitime fuerimus requisiti, quod per nos vel per dictos archidiaconos nostros, aut eorum officiales, in nostra diœcesi executioni demandentur, vobis tenore præsentium indulgemus. Volentes insuper tranquillitati vestræ uberius providere, ut vestra communitas in posterum in statu prospero et tranquillo valeat gubernari, statuimus ut si qui clerici in nostra diœcesi beneficiati, die aut nocte inventi fuerint in pacis perturbationem arma deferentes, et super hoc convicti fuerint legitime, aut rite confessi, et hoc nobis constiterit, quod eorum beneficia in manibus nostris sequestrentur; quod si beneficiati non fuerint, ad receptionem beneficiorum ecclesiasticorum inhabiles habeantur, quousque tam beneficiati supradicti, quam hujusmodi non beneficiati, de hujusmodi delictis satisfecerint, ac beneficium absolutionis in forma juris meruerint obtinere, fama eorum pro hoc minime sugillata. Rogamus, insuper, et in Domino exhortamur confratres nostros, dominos Dunelmensem, Carliolensem, et Candidæ Casæ episcopos, quod omnia præmissa rata habeant, et in suis diœcesibus faciant firmiter observari, et exequi cum effectum, cum fuerint requisiti. In quorum omnium testimonium sigillum nostrum præsentibus duximus apponendum. Data in hospitio nostro London. juxta Westmonasterium, iij. nonas Martii, anno gratiæ m^o. ccc^{mo}. xxiij^{to}., et pontificatus nostri septimo. (Reg. Melton, 517 a.)

persoluta, prout per quandam cedula, quam vobis mittimus præsentibus interclusam, plenius poterit apparere; qui procurator ad hujusmodi obolorum residuum nondum collectum, et ipsis, ut asseritur, debitum, plenius colligendum, nos indies excitare non desistit; cujus petitionem tam justam, tum propter dictorum cancellarii et magistrorum in agro scolasticæ disciplinæ scientiæ margaritam in Domino quærentium debitum favorem, tum propter alia præmissa, favore quo possumus, nec immerito, volentes prosequi cum effectu; quocirca vobis committimus et mandamus quatenus moneatis et efficaciter inducatis, moneri etiam et induci legitime faciatis, omnes et singulos rectores, vicarios, et alios in dicto archidiaconatu, qualitercunque beneficiatos, quod de singulis marcis beneficiorum suorum ecclesiasticorum, secundum ipsorum taxationem ad decimam, singulos obolos vobis, officiali, dictæ Universitatis nomine, citra festum Sancti Michaelis proximo futurum persolvant, et quilibet eorum, prout ipsum contigerit, persolvat, et de eisdem satisfaciat competenter: ipsos etiam ex parte nostra specialiter requirentes (quos etiam rogamus attentius per præsentes) quod præmissa gratanter faciant, caritatis intuitu ac precum nostrarum instantissimo interventu. (Revera credimus quod per hoc poterunt penes Altissimum plurimum promereri.) Proviso quod totam pecuniam, quam vos recipere et etiam levare contigerit in hac parte, magistro Johanni de Nassyngton, juris canonici professori, rectori ecclesiæ de Ouston, Lincoln. diœcesios, clerico nostro familiari, ad hujusmodi pecuniam colligendum et recipiendum, ad instantem petitionem magistri Antonii de Goldesburgh, prædictæ Universitatis procuratoris, specialiter deputato, citra festum Apostolorum Simonis et Judæ proximo futurum totaliter persolvatis; recipientes ab eodem acquietantias de soluto. Propter quæ, pater sanctissime, turbati plurimum et perplexi, communicato jurisperitorum consilio, vestræ beatitudini hæc duximus fideliter et humiliter referenda, non quærentes excusa-

A LETTER FROM ARCHBISHOP MELTON IN BEHALF OF JOHN ACREMAN, A SANCTUARY-MAN AT BEVERLEY.

(Reg. Melton, 430 a.)

Universis sanctæ matris ecclesiæ filiis ad quos præsentes literæ pervenerint Willelmus, permissione Divina Ebor. archiepiscopus, Angliæ primas, salutem in amplexibus Salvatoris. Cum inter alias libertates Deo et beato Johanni Beverlacensi, Ejusdem confessori glorioso, et ecclesiæ suæ ac nostræ Beverlacensi per regem Athelstanum, quondam regem Angliæ, donatas, sit et fuerit hæc libertas concessa, et privilegialiter indultum quod quicumque criminosus, cujuscunque flagitii sive criminis reus, qui infra miliare a dicta immediate distans venerit, seu crucem in ejusdem confinio positam attigerit, tanta gaudebit ecclesiæ immunitate a tempore quo ad ipsam fuerit more debito admissus, ac si fuisset infra ipsius valvas ecclesiæ constitutus. Quæ quidem libertas, inter cæteras, Deo, et Sancto Suo, et ecclesiæ Suæ prædictis indultas per reges Angliæ quamplures, dicti regis Athelstani successores, extitit et est legitime confirmata; cujus violatores, præter alias pœnas eis infligendas, sunt a diu multorum auctoritate Romanorum pontificum, et aliorum sanctorum patrum ipso facto majoris excommunicationis sententia involuti, et singulis annis excommunicati publice ac solemniter nuntiati; quidam tamen, se ministros domini nostri regis confingentes, quendam Johannem Acreman de Bruges, qui pro morte domini Johannis Nele militis, apud Courtrey per eundem interfecti, et pro aliis criminibus et feloniis quæ apud Norwycum se fatebatur expressius commisisse, ad dictas immunitatem et liber-tatem confugerat, et ad ipsam admissus fuerat modo debito et consueto, eademque aliquandiu gaudebat, sicut sibi licuit, pacifice et quiete; ab earundemque

Willelmus, etc., dilecto filio Symoni de Hugate, senescallo, præpositi ecclesiæ nostræ Beati Johannis Beverlacensis, salutem, gratiam et benedictionem. Inter alia privilegia, libertatesque alias et immunitates ab Athelstano, quondam rege Angliæ, ecclesiæ nostræ Beati Johannis Beverlaci abolim concessa, et per sedem Apostolicam legitime confirmata, per regesque in regno Angliæ succedentes deinceps, et præsertim per excellentissimum principem dominum nostrum, dominum E. Dei gratia nunc regem Angliæ, ejusque confirmationem roborata, appareat, quod dicta ecclesia nostra ab ostio ipsius circumquaque, ejusdemque pax et libertas per spatium unius leugæ, dicti Athelstani, sedisque prædictæ, principumque eidem Athelstano postmodum succedentium concessione, confirmatione et roboramine adeo existit et extiterat ab antiquo privilegialiter dilatata; totaque ipsa leuga tali tantaque libertate sanxita, ut quicumque cujuslibet flagitii reus infra ipsam leugam antequam comprehenderetur posset venire, vitæ securitatem et membrorum indemnitate permitteretur habere; prout in diversis munimentis a sanctis patribus et regibus catholicis, dictæ ecclesiæ nostræ in hac parte concessis, plenius poterit apparere: sintque ac fuerint omnes et singuli sententia majoris excommunicationis legitime involuti, qui in aliquo dictas ecclesiæ nostræ libertates, seu earum aliquam, in parte vel in toto, præsumpserint violare. Audito nuper et intellecto quod quidam, quorundam flagitiorum rei, videlicet Symon de Beltoft, Thomas de Parys de Suynton, et Thomas de Parys de Mekesburgh, confinia libertatis nostræ prædictæ et villam Beverlaci occasione immunitatis habendæ nuper sunt ingressi, ac juxta eorum confessiones et petitiones ad immunitatem obtinendam et consequendam, secundum vim, formam, et effectum libertatis prædictæ, sunt, ut dicitur, legitime, sicut antiquitus et semper postea temporibusque modernis fieri consueverat, jam admissi; vos tamen dictos Symonem, Thomam et Thomam, vel saltem eorum aliquos, seu aliquem, a dictæ libertatis immunitate quam consecuti fuerant, ut accepimus, extraxistis; ipsosque seu eorum aliquem carcerali custodiæ, invitos seu invitum, miserabiliter detinetis, ecclesiæ nostræ prædictæ libertates temere infrigendo, ac terribilis sententiæ de qua præmittitur discrimina non immerito incurrando; nolentes ergo tantum errorem conniventibus oculis, præsertim in dictæ ecclesiæ nostræ et ejus libertatum ita manifestum præjudicium, sicuti nec valemus quomodolibet tolerare, vos, in Dei nomine et ecclesiæ Suæ sanctæ, ac auctoritate nostra moneamus firmiter et hortamur, quatenus ad præmissa intuitum debitum convertentes, si ita sit, errorem vestrum, de quo præmittitur, faciatis celeriter revocari; et quicquid contra li-

A LETTER FROM ARCHBISHOP MELTON TO LOUIS DE BEAUMONT, BISHOP OF DURHAM.

(Reg. Melton, 471 a, b.)

York,
June 7, 1333.

Some persons have assaulted and injured the bishop of Carlisle and his suite in the suburb of Carlisle.

Willelmus, etc., venerabili in Christo fratri nostro, domino Ludovico Dei gratia Dunolmensi episcopo, vel ejus Officiali, salutem, et fraternam in Domino caritatem. Licet interdum ad tempus ex causa subditorum dissimulentur offensæ, illas tamen quæ notabiliter in Dei et ecclesiæ scandalum, præsentis contumeliam, et totius provinciæ opprobrium committuntur, eo minus dissimulare convenit quo magis provocaretur ira Dei, superioris injuria, et patriæ infamia cresceret, subjectorum culpis remanentibus impunitis. Ecce ! proh dolor, clamor validus auditu, cunctis Christi-fidelibus execrabilis, nuper perstrepuerit aures nostras, quod nonnulli perditionis filii degeneres et ingrati, solo nomine Christiani, cum morte fœdus, nisi resipuerint, ineuntes, in suburbio civitatis Karliolensis in venerabilem patrem, dominum Johannem Dei gratia Karliolensem episcopum, patrem eorum spiritualem, et suffraganeum nostrum, devotione postposita, in verba blasphemiæ et convitii prorumpentes,¹ insaniter irruerunt; eundemque episcopum, Christi legatum, et columnam ecclesiæ, cum sagittis et lapidibus injuriose et temere percusserunt,

Johannes permissione Divina episcopus Karliolensis dilecto in Christo filio archidiacono Karliolensi salutem, gratiam et benedictionem. Cum sit inhumanum et detestandum seculi filios contra parentes suos insurgere testatur ipsa veritas, quæ sub sententia maledictionis Divinæ præcepit ut parentibus, tam spiritualibus quam carnalibus, filiali reverentia obediamus, et eis honorem debitum impendamus. Quod quidem præceptum Domini quidam filii nostri degeneres et ingrati, quorum multorum personas et nomina ignoramus, nefarie violantes, nos nuper cum familia nostra per partes de Penreth pacifice transeuntes, nescimus quo ducti spiritu, cum gladiis et aliis armis bellicis insecuti sunt; et irruentes in nos, nequiter et maliciose in familiares nostros, clericos et alios, manus temere violentas injecerunt, et eos vulnerarunt, et alias enormiter pertractarunt, in animarum suarum grave periculum, et dignitatis nostræ contumeliam et contemptum; propter quod in sententiam excommunicationis majoris, contra hujusmodi sacrilegos promulgatam, ipso facto damnabiliter inciderunt. Volentes igitur animarum periculis obviare, et filios tam indomitos et indisciplinatos a viis suis malis, quantum possumus, revocare, vobis districte sub pœna excommunicationis majoris injungimus et mandamus, quatenus omnes prædicti sceleris pertractatores in propria persona vestra moneatis, et moneri publice faciatis, ut, infra octo dies a tempore monitionis hujusmodi numerandos, de tantis offensis et sacrilegiis suis se corrigant, ac Deo et ecclesiæ de eis satisfaciant, ut tenentur; quod si infra tempus prædictum non fecerint, eos extunc, eorumque auctores et fautores omnes, eis consilium, opem vel favorem præstantes in præmissis, omnes et singulos excommunicatos esse in genere, singulis diebus Dominicis et festivis, pulsatis campanis, candelisque accensis solemniter nuntietis, et faciatis publice nuntiari, quousque reatum suum recognoverint, et absolutionis beneficium in forma juris meruerint obtinere. Inquirentes nihilominus de nominibus eorum, et certificantes nos quamcitus vobis constare poterit de eisdem, per literas vestras patentes harum seriem continentes. Data apud Rosam, secundo die mensis Maii, anno Domini millesimo cccxxxvij., et nostræ consecrationis quinto.

Consimiles literæ emanarunt eodem die rectoribus et vicariis de Hoton, Dacre, Kyrkoswald, Salkeld Parva, Edenhale, Penreth et de Warton. (Reg. Kirkby, 183 a.)

Universis pateat per præsentem quod licet nos, J. etc., prætendentes Willelmum de L[englays], nostræ diœcesios, defunctum, nobis et nostris familiaribus, clericis et laicis, insultum illicitum publice fecisse in quodam loco in suburbio Karlioli constituto, Caldeu-stanes nuncupato, ac manus violentas in nos et prædictos familiares nostros temere in-

Cum igitur contra singulares personas hujusmodi flagitiosa scelera ausu præcipiti perpetrantes excommunicationis majoris, præter poenas alias quæ ipsis et eorum filiis infliguntur, et in civitatem quæ hujusmodi scelera in proprium antistitem commiserit, interdicti sint sententiæ a Canone promulgatæ, cujus tenor sequitur in hæc verba. Si quis, suadente diabolo, in hoc sacrilegii genus prorupit, etc. Nos, considerantes quantum ex dicto sacrilegio et tam enormi excessu res perniciosi exempli, quantaque juris ecclesiastici depressio, ac in populo Dei scandala et schismata provenirent, contumeliæ in Christi servitores multipliciter pullarent, et in hortum ecclesiæ Dei succrescerent, nisi debitæ gladius acrimoniæ tot malorum radices erueret et remedium induceret salutare. Quis enim filius ecclesiæ tutus incederet, si ejusdem caput et antistes in proprio solo ecclesiæ refugium tutelæ nullatenus inveniret? tabilis error quo caput pede conteritur et ordinarii sublimitas pedanei judicis non attingit judiciarem potestatem. Nosque, licet immerito, ad status metropolitici dignitatem vocati, nolentes, sicut nec valentes tam horribile factum, tamque detestabilem rabiem infra nostræ fines provinciæ sub conniventia tolerare, quæ tot mala, de quibus præmittitur, et alia innumera, quod absit, induceret, nisi occurreretur celerius ex adverso. episcopatum ista vice dispositioni sedis Apostolicæ re-servatum, et magistro Ricardo de Bury de eo fuisse provisum; quinimmo tunc apud Eboracum dicebatur, viam fuerat universæ carnis ingressus. Sed cognito quod vestra clementiâ dictum episcopatum reservaverat et contulerat magistro Ricardo supradicto, statim cum decebat, et dictum magistrum Ricardum adiret suam benevolentiam petiturus; qui meum secutus consilium cum magnis laboribus et expensis adivit dictum magistrum R. in remotis tunc agentem; præfatus vero magister Ricardus, de magna suæ curialitatis et bonitatis abundantia, ipsum gratanter admisit et in suam benevolentiam recollegit. Ne igitur, reddendo debitum justitiæ, ibi in laqueum incidam improvisum, ubi sperabam meritum adaugere, placeat, quæso, vestræ misericordissimæ sanctitati ignorantiam creaturæ vestræ probabilem habere de vestræ gratiæ plenitudine, si placuerit, excusatam, suggerentibus de me sinistra in his vel aliis fidem penitus denegando; ac motum animi vestri misericorditer cohibendo, quousque suggesta percurrerit celebris discussio veritatis; nam facta mea sic dirigam, Deo duce, quod in ipsius offensam non prosiliam, qui ad honores et onera, licet immeritum, me creavit. Sanctissimo in Christo patri et domino, domino Clementi Divina providentia sacrosanctæ Romanæ ac universalis ecclesiæ summo pontifici, vester devotus orator, Ricardus, ejusdem miseratione Dunolmensis ecclesiæ minister, cum omnimodo subjectionis et reverentiæ famulatu, humillima pedum oscula beatorum. Sacrosancta Romana ecclesia, in lapide adjutorii super fundamentum Apostolorum et Prophetarum posita, totius orbis obtinens principatum, cuilibet juste postulanti remedio subvenit salutari. Nuper, pater beatissime, felicitis recordationis domino meo, prædecessore vestro immediato, (per cujus circumspectam providentiam sperabam infallibiliter ecclesiam vestram Dunolmensem, turbatam multipliciter, a suæurbationis impetu liberari), sicut Domino placuit, ab hac luce subtracto, suorum corda subditorum implevit tristitia, illorum præcipue qui vacationem ecclesiæ Christi diutinam autumaverunt; sed, benedictus Altissimus, Qui servos Suos consolatur tribulationibus fatigatos, auditis certis rumoribus de vestræ creationis auspiciis, de cujus persona commendabili, virtutibus et meritis præpollenti, quæ præ cæteris est morum et scientiarum præconiis exaltata, tantam et talem notitiam, dum in inferioribus gradibus, reportavi, quod me securum ad gratiarum dona reddit, et audacem efficit petere largiora; unde Deo, summo omnium creatori, ad regratiandum totis viribus assurrexi, de Cujus fonte scivi sine dubio hujusmodi fluentia gratiæ derivari, resumens incrementum lætitiæ, conversa in gaudium tristitia præconcepta. Nec mirum, beatissime pater, cum in vobis resideat anchora spei meæ, sperantis fiducialiter me et ecclesiam vestram Dunelm. a suis gravaminibus, exponendis inferius, quæ, si placet, vestra moveant viscera pietatis, obtentu Divinæ misericordiæ, per vestræ beatitudinis excellentiam relevari. Olim siquidem, pater sanctissime! petita per dominum meum regem Angliæ illustrem quadam decima omnium beneficiorum ecclesiasticorum in regno Angliæ existentium pro defensione regni sui, quod gens Scotorum ante frequenter invaserat et tunc hostiliter invadere se parabat; et, a clero concessa liberaliter hac decima, nonnulli clerici Dunolmensis diocesis beneficiati, præsertim patronatus mei, (quorum beneficia, utpote propinqua terræ Scotiæ, adeo depopulata fuerant et consumpta, quod fructus et proventus eorum ad decimam taxæ tunc currentis sufficere non valebant,) dicto domino regi humiliter supplicabant, ut dicta beneficia, tam de patronatu Dunolmensis episcopi quam etiam cæterorum dictæ diocesis, de novo taxari permetteret, cum tali moderamine, ut, deducta decima, possent de residuo mediocriter sustentari. Cui quidem petitioni benigne rex annuit, tanquam justæ et consonæ rationi, suis permittens literis prædecessori meo Dunolmensi episcopo, ut ecclesiastica beneficia suæ diocesis prælibatæ de novo taxari faceret in hoc casu; et, secundum taxationem inde faciendam, sibi sic concessæ decimæ solverentur; quod adhuc servatur in dictis beneficiis, causa primaria totaliter non cessante. In procurationibus tamen dominorum cardinalium accenditur prima taxa; colligitur et solvitur juxta eam, unde cum vix sit aliquod beneficium in diocesi Dunolmensi, ad meum spectans patronatum seu collationem, quod summam excedat, ad quam per libertatem sedis Apostolicæ mandatur in forma communi principibus clericis provideri, si hujus generis assequi debeant secundum dictam mitigationem instigatione regia factam et indictam, meæ dispositioni pauca seu nulla beneficia ecclesiastica penitus relinquuntur. Ex quo contingit quod clericis pro vectis theologiæ, et aliis, quantumcunque morum honestate et scientia præditis literarum, subactis, tamen, pæne clericalis mendicitatis opprobrio, juxta morem temporis præteriti, et ecclesiæ Dunolmensis antiquatum honorem, in ecclesiasticis beneficiis aliquibus nequeam subvenire; quinimmo nec in agro dominico quotidiana solitudine ecclesiarum mihi plurimum onerosa mecum jam vexatis diutius promotionibus hujusmodi, juxta suæ probitatis merita, post eorum labores anxios, raro seu nunquam providere valeam, per suggestiones subdolas et varios processus clandestinos ipsorum confingentium se pauperes, præter et contra intentionem Apostolicam supplantatos. Quocirca ad vestræ pedes clementiæ flexis poplitibus provolutus, quanta possum devotione vestræ sanctitatis apicem deprecor et requiro, quatenus, præmissis ad exauditionis gratiam introductis, mihi dignetur concedere vestræ dominationis benignitas, ex favoris affluentia specialis, id non obstantibus gratiis in forma communi et aliis quibuscunque per sedem Apostolicam factis et concessis, certo numero clericorum familiarium meis obsequiis insistentium, arbitrio vestræ beatitudinis moderando, de beneficiis ecclesiasticis ad meam collationem seu præsentationem spectantibus, cum eis, prout proximo ea vacare contigerit, providere valeam per clausulam, cæteris omnibus anteferri; aut, per paternæ clementissimæ considerationis benevolentiam plenior, declarare, si placet, quod et Deo placitum fore creditur et acceptum, dictos pauperes clericos super beneficiis ad meum patronatum spectantes, impetrantes posterum et expectantes similes in præsentem suas gratias, debere assequi, secundum taxationem solitam observatam antiquitus et auctoritate Apostolica confirmatam; juxta quam, ut prædicitur, sacri collegii cardinalibus dictæ curiæ Romanæ est hactenus persolutum: decernens attemptiones et provisiones beneficiorum ad meum, ut præmittitur, patronatum spectantium, juxta dictam mitigationem jam factas, super quibus lites motæ sunt, et nondum finitæ, in posterumque faciendæ, irritas et inanes, declarationemque hujusmodi ad lites et negotia super hujusmodi beneficiis etiam per appellationem pendentia modo quibus conclusimus existit cum favore et gratia extendendo; necnon recipiendo, si placeat, in his et aliis me, vestrum oratorem continuum, cernentibus, et meo specialissimo et familiari, latore præsentium, petitiones debitas in petitis.¹ Ad regimen ecclesiæ Suæ sanctæ, in felicitate, prosperitate et salute augeat Omnipotens dies vestros, Qui pacem per mundi climata inter universa regna sanctitati vestræ gratiam tribuat reformando! Data in civitate vestra Dunolmensi, mensis Septembris die undecima.

Asks leave to provide for a certain number of clerks.

And begs him to cancel the provisions he has made himself.

Reverende —. Licet a personis quampluribus super his quæ gesta sunt per crudelem gentem Scotorum in partibus Angliæ, paternitati vestræ reverendæ diversas literas dirigi supponamus, cupientes tamen ad augmentum gaudii, prout nos conceperimus præmissa fieri, vestrum animum recreare, ad vestræ dominationis audientiam deducimus per præsentēs. Scoti igitur supradicti, paulo post festum Sancti Michaelis Archangeli, in summa elatione constituti, cum ea multitudine armatorum et peditum, cui, sicut postmodum audivimus a quibusdam de eisdem, totam gentem tam Franciæ quam Angliæ non credebant posse restitisse, etsi vires suas unanimiter conflavissent, partes Angliæ invadentes, eas incendiis et feralibus gladiis circumquaque, per quas fecerunt transitum, crudeliter devastarunt, vix parcentes sexui aut ætati; et inter mala hujusmodi quæ atrociter committebant, fortalitium de Lydel, cujus custodiam habuit dominus W.² de Selby, ceperunt, interfectis omnibus quotquot in eodem fuerunt inventi: postmodum vero, apud aliud fortalitium, quod vocatur Haydenhall, juxta Corbrig, Scotis se transferentibus, illud, reservata vita inhabitantium, redditum fuit eis. Deinde vero, continuando dietas, die tali Octobris venerunt circa horam quasi nonam prope villam Dunolm., super moram de Bello Redditu, ostendentes se per dispositas acies, quasi parati unanimiter ad pugnandum. Porro, in crastino die, videlicet xvij. Octobris, nostratibus usque moram de Bello Redditu, de quo præmittitur, declinantibus, Scoti hoc audientes, se super eandem moram, juxta parcum nostrum, ad pugnandum, aciebus dispositis, paraverunt: unde ab hora quasi tertia usque ad horam nonam remanserunt partes, vexillis erectis, inter civitatem Dunelm. et manerium prædictum de Bello Redditu, modico existente spatio inter eas; qua quidem hora, ad incrementum gaudii ecclesiæ Anglicanæ populi, eædem partes utrobique dure, acerbæ, et valde acriter conflixerunt. Sed, benedictus Altissimus, in Cujus manu sunt corda regum, ac, prout Ei placet, vulnerat et medetur, dejicit et exaltat, Scotos Anglici cum triumpho mirifico superarunt, incolis partium Borealium, quos diu Scoti oppresserant, ad optatæ libertatis gaudia restitutus. In quo quidem conflictu David, se dicens regem Scotiæ, captus est, cum sagitta in facie graviter vulneratus: multis vero de valentioribus totius terræ Scotiæ interfectis et jacentibus super moram de Bello-Redditu miserabiliter denudatis, quorum personas et numerum certitudinaliter vobis nescimus exprimere; quos tamen per alios satis habebitis expressos. Multi vero capti sunt, quorum unus, non tamen valentior sed revera malevolentior est, Willelmus Douglas; cujus et aliorum nomina vobis in cedula inclusa præsentibus destinamus. Pauci de nostris in dicto mortui sunt conflictu. Locus ille in quo bellum, de quo superius fit mentio, est commissum, inter civitatem Dunolmensem et quendam monticollum qui vocatur Fyndonne noscitur situari;

qui quidem monticulus a quodam præsagio sumpsisse nomen creditur, cum posse dicatur verisimiliter Fyn-donne, quasi finem dans vel finem dandus. Nomen enim, ut tenet communis opinio, dissidio miserabili quod per multa annorum curricula inter Anglos et Scotos invaluit, Ipsius cooperante potentia quæ nullis est inclusa limitibus, conjicitur finis dari.

OF DURHAM TO THE ARCHBISHOP OF YORK.

Asks him

VI. about the appropriation of the church of Hem-

Supplicant reverendæ paternitati vestræ filii vestri humiles, Prior et Conventus monasterii Dunolmensis, quatenus, ob amorem Dei et gloriosi Confessoris Beati Cuthberti, patroni sui, velit sanctissimo in Christo patri et domino, Clementi papæ Sexto, statum et circumstantias ecclesiæ parochialis de Hemmyngburgh, vestræ diocesis, de advocacione et jure patronatus eorum existentis ; (et, potissime, quod ipsa ecclesia, vacante ejusdem custodia, ac fructuum et proventuum tempore vacationis obvenientium perceptio, priori Dunelmensi, qui pro tempore fuerit, ex antiqua consuetudine, et archiepiscoporum Ebor., qui pro tempore fuerint, concessione, ac privilegiis sedis Apostolicæ dinoscuntur pertinere ; et quod per unionem, appropriationem et annexionem ejusdem ecclesiæ auctoritate sedis Apostolicæ, favente Domino, faciendam, Ebor. ecclesia, (quia episcopalis dignitas modicam seu nullam incurreret læsionem), necnon veritatem causarum, quarum prætextu per suam petitionem domino papæ porrigendam inferius annotatam appropriationem¹ dictæ ecclesiæ petere intendunt,) per vestras literas testimoniales significare, et pro expeditione ipsius negotii, ob reverentiam dicti Sancti, vestrum sanum consilium et auxilium favorabiliter impertiri.

Causæ vero superius annotatæ sunt istæ, videlicet, quod per guerræ communis inter regem Angliæ illustrem et gentes Scotiæ afflictiones et discrimina. ac turbationes alias in ipso regno multiplicibus et mutuis infestationibus per sexaginta annos continuata miserabiliter, jam longi temporis per decursum, partes in confiniis utriusque regni, in quibus possessiones et redditus sui, unde quasi tota substantia sustentationis eorum consurgere consuevit, notorie consistebant, per manus spoliatrices gentis Scottorum et incendia adeo sunt destructæ totaliter et exhaustæ, quod ad onera dicto monasterio incumbencia, et ad sustentationem exilem et tenuem monachorum in monasterio et cellis ejus, et ad hospitalitatem ad quam observandam necessario astringuntur; (tamen quia monachi qui in tribus cellis, scilicet Coldyngham, Insula Sacra, et Insula de Farne, a dicto monasterio dependentibus, in præfatis confiniis situatis, cum familia competente, omnia vitæ necessaria de ecclesiis de Edenham, Ederham et Ersceldun, cum capellis ab eisdem dependentibus, in terra Scotiæ situatis, ipsis priori et conventui suo monasterio et cellis prædictis dudum unitis et annexis, quarum fructus et proventus annui trescentas libras argenti notorie valuerunt, et de aliis bonis inibi existentibus ipsis assignatis in præfatis partibus perciperunt, propter earundem destructionem ad monasterium Dunelm. confugientes, de pusillis facultatum reliquiis, quas in partibus a Marchia, remotis aliquantulum manus hostilis non rapuit, vitam pauperem secum per multa annorum curricula jam duxerunt;

The reason for this request is the losses they have had through the Scots, extending over sixty years.

Their three cells of Coldyngham, Holy Island, and Farne, derived their subsistence from three churches in Scotland.

Which were worth 300l. per annum.

¹ This church was appropriated to the house of Durham in 1356.

But by the war these monks are beggars, and have been living with us.

Other reasons.

tunc quia pauperes et alii diversarum conditionum viri, qui terras et mansa in dictis confiniis de præsidentibus in dictis locis tenuerunt, quorum bona per eosdem Scottos in dictis partibus sunt direpta, in profundum egestatis dilapsi, pro succursu habendo saltem tali, quali de suis inediis et æumnis ad eas passim confluunt et his diebus multo frequentius consueto; necnon et propter sarcinam debitorum, quam occasione hujus destructionis contraxerunt, ut adversa prosperis coæquarent, sperantes per Dei misericordiam tempus tranquillius advenire, quod utique diversi tractatus pacis sibi indies promittebant ad status pristini essentiam aliqualem restaurare) his diebus suæ non suppetunt, nec futuris temporibus sperantur suppetere facultates.

A DRAFT OF A LETTER FROM (HENRY) LORD PERCY¹ TO CLEMENT VI.

(MS. Cotton, Faustina, A. vi., 19 b.)

(1347-8.)
Speaks of the injuries suffered by the convent of Durham by war during the last 40 years;

Sanctissimo in Christo patri ac domino suo reverentissimo, domino Clementi Divina providentia sacrosanctæ Romanæ ac universalis ecclesiæ summo pontifici, Henricus de Percy, senior, humilis et devotus filius suus, cum omnimodæ subjectionis et devotionis reverentia humilia pedum oscula beatorum. Ad vestræ deduco notitiam sanctitatis quod per guerræ communis afflictiones et discrimina inter regna Angliæ et Scotiæ mutuis infestationibus jam per xl. annos et amplius miserabiliter continuata, redditus, possessiones et prædia humilium servorum vestrorum et devotorum oratorum, Prioris et Conventus ecclesiæ cathedralis Dunolmensis, in quibus quasi tota scriba, vel major pars sustentationis suæ existere consuevit, in confiniis regnorum prædictorum, et quædam etiam in ipso regno Scotiæ notorie consistentia, per manus spoliatrices gentis Scottorum et incendia adeo sunt destructæ totaliter et exhaustæ, quod ad onera dictæ ecclesiæ incumbentia, et ad sustentationem exilem et tenuem monachorum in monasterio et in cellis ejus commorantium, et ad hospitalitatem ad quam necessario astringuntur his diebus suæ non suppetunt, nec futuris temporibus sperantur suppetere facultates. Ad vestræ igitur sanctitatis pedes humiliter provolutus, Apostolicæ, si libeat, supplico benedictioni, omni reverentia qua possum subjectiva, quatenus dictos priorem et conventum ecclesiam parochialem de Hemyngburgh, Ebor. diœcesios et ipsorum patronatus, in relevamen destructionum præmissarum et supportationem onerum eisdem incumbentium, in usus suos proprios et successorum suorum a sanctitate vestra humillime petituros, paternæ compassionis oculis dignemini contemplari, petitionem eorundem, si dominationi vestræ placuerit, æternæ retributionis intuitu favorabiliter concedentes; cum ecclesia vestra cathedralis memorata cum cellis sibi annexis ad desolationis irrecuperabilis vergat opprobrium, nisi vestræ pietatis dexteram citius senserint adjutricem. Paternitatem vestram sanctissimam ad ecclesiæ Suæ sanctæ regimen et munimen diu conservet Altissimus prosperam et jocundam!

Die quo novus rex est consecrandus erunt præsentes in palatio quatuor magnates qui eum ad monasterium supportare debeant. Et faciet prius dominus R. de Bellocampo, comes Bedfordiæ, qui a veteri elemosinarii habeat officium, pannos virgulatos, sive burellum, prostrari sub pedibus regis incidentis in palatio usque ad pulpitum monasterii. Pars autem panni illius quæ est in ecclesia cedit semper in usus sacristæ loci, et reliqua pars tota, quæ est extra ecclesiam, distribueretur pauperibus per manum supradicti Richardi, elemosinarii. Cancellarius vero, si episcopus fuerit, cum calice lapideo, qui est de regali, pontificalibus indutus, regem est præcessurus, quem cum patena thesaurarius pro more antecedit, indutus dalmatica etiam honorifice eodem die tenebit ; quæ patena a subdiacono inter Secretam Missæ in altum teneri solet. Duo sceptræ regia præcedentia portabunt duo comites, quibus rex illud officium committere voluerit : atque tres comites tres gladios gestantes, induti serico, regem antecedent. Comes quidem Cestriæ, qui primatum sibi vindicat deferendi, portabit gladium qui appellatur Curtana. Et alium portabit comes de Huntyndon. Tertium vero portabit comes de War.' Pannum de serico quadratum, purpureum, quatuor hastis deargentatis sustentatum, cum quatuor campanellis argenteis deauratis, ultra regem incidentem quocunque gestabunt barones de Quinque Portubus ; ad quamlibet hastam quatuor assignati pro diversitate Portuum ne videatur portus portui præferri. Et similiter ab eisdem baronibus portabitur pannus de serico ultra reginam post regem incidentem, si ipso die debeat coronari : quos pannos iidem barones suo jure obtinebunt, sed hastæ cum campanellis debentur ecclesiæ Westmonasteriensi.

The order of the coronation.

Ordo novum regem in regno constituendi die quo consecrandus est novus rex.

Summo mane convenient prælati et nobiles in palatio regali apud Westmonasterium, tractaturi de novi consecratione principis et de legibus et consuetudinibus regni confirmandis et firmiter statuendis ; ita quod provideatur aliquis locus eminens in dicto palatio, super quem hæres regis regnaturus cum omni mansuetudine et reverentia elevatus, ipso tamen prius, ut moris est, balneato et induto mundissimis vestibus et caligis tantummodo calciato. His peractis ordinetur in ecclesia per archiepiscopos, episcopos, abbatem et conventum Westmonasteriensem, et alios, processio in capis sericis cum textis et turribulis et aliis quæ processioni conveniunt. Et sic induti processionaliter regi futuro occurrant in palatio antedicto ; et sic ipsum processive in ecclesiam ducant ; ipsoque introducto atque in pulpito in sede sibi apta collocato, hæc Antiphona ab omnibus decantetur. Firmetur manus tua, etc. Postea revestiat archiepiscopus, vel episcopus, qui missam celebraturus est, et cum aliis prælatis principem consecrandum honorifice per chori medium ducat usque ad magnum altare, super quod tenetur offerre pallium et unam libram auri, Ejus complendo præceptum Qui dixit "Non appareas vacuus coram oculis Domini Dei tui."¹ Continueque super pavementum tapetis stratum coram altare se prosternat, dicatque super illum metro-politanus, vel episcopus, hanc orationem, Deus humilium, etc. Postea sermo dicatur a prædicatore. Postea metropolitanus, vel episcopus, eundem mediocriter districteque interroget voce, si leges et consuetudines ab antiquis, justis et Deo devotis regibus plebi Anglorum concessas cum sacramenti confirmatione eidem plebi concedere et observare voluerit, et præsertim leges, consuetudines et libertates a glorioso rege Edwardo clero populoque concessas. Si autem omnibus his assentire se velle promiserit, exponat ei metropolitanus de quibus jurabit, ita dicendo, "Servabis ecclesiæ Deo, cleroque et populo pacem ex integro et concordiam in Deo secundum vires tuas?" Respondebit, "Servabo."

"Facies fieri in omnibus judiciis tuis æquam et rectam justitiam et discretionem in misericordia et veritate secundum vires tuas?" Respondebit, "Faciam."

"Concedis justas consuetudines ecclesiæ teneri? das et promittis per te eas esse protegendas, et ad honorem Dei corroborandas, quas vulgus elegerit, secundum vires tuas?" Respondebit, "Concedo et promitto."

Adjicianturque prædictis interrogationibus quæ justa fuerint. Pronunciatis omnibus, confirmet se omnia esse servaturum sacramento super altare protinus præstito coram cunctis. Hisque peractis, metropolitanus, vel episcopus, incipiat excelsa voce, Veni, Creator, prostrato eo ante altare.
